MEXICANS MAY AGREE TO NEW TRADE TREATY

Commercial Pact With U. S.
Will Adjust Dispute on Oil Land Laws
FEAR ACTION ON EMBARGO
Calles Administration Fears Overthrow by Revolu-

Washington — Abrogation of the one-year agreement between the United States and Mexico with respect to smuggling means a new commercial treaty eventually which will adjust
the pending dispute on the confiscation of oil lands.

Inasmuch as the Mexican government failed to give satisfactory assurances that American property rights would be protected, the American government went ahead with the policy it had outlined for itself some time ago — namely, to obtain the necessary freedom of action to the embargo on arms on the border. In the convention which has just expired had not been formally abrogated
it would have been continued indefinitely and thirty days' notice would have been required to end the convention. Now the American government can, in a few hours lift the embargo in fact, without further notice to Mexico. Such an act is feared by the Calles administration because there already are revolutionary elements to get back into control and if arms and ammunition can be purchased in the United States the Calles administration may be overthrown.

CALLES FEARED MOVE —
This has been known to the Calles group for some time, but it was not thought the United States was seriously about using the threat about lifting the embargo on arms as a lever to force recognition of the rights of American citizens. The announcement clears the atmosphere
to the extent of showing that President Coolidge has lifted after ten years of preventing confiscation of American properties, or recognition of American claims, but each effort will in effect be withdrawn.
The way out for Mexico is to agree to negotiate a new commercial treaty which will dispose of all pending matters. Inasmuch as a treaty can supersede the constitution of the United States, according to constitutional experts, so in Mexican law a treaty with the United States guaranteeing American citizens against the retroactive feature of the constitution of 1917
would be legally effective in the Mexican courts.

The United States has had no commercial treaty with Mexico since 1882.
An attempt was made in 1917 by the Wilson administration and again in 1923 by Secretary Hughes to get a commercial treaty which would recognize American rights, but each effort failed. The American government sought a treaty because of the fact that assurances from the Carranza administration were not respected by the Obregon or Calles administrations. A treaty if duly ratified by the Mexican congress would be made with the Mexican nation which would be binding for all time in international law.

WANT COMMERCIAL TREATY
The department of state wants a new commercial treaty and is determined that nothing else will be satisfactory. There are some indications that persons in official quarters in Mexico desire the same thing but not until the full effect of the announcement of the ending of the smuggling convention is noted will there be a recognition of opinion into action in Mexico City.

Both the treasury department,
which is interested in preventing liquor smuggling on the border, and the labor department, which was troubled by the coming across the border illegally, have been opposed to the abrogation of the smuggling convention but they both have been assured that ultimately there is more at stake in securing south of the Rio Grande, in fact, in the entire western hemisphere, the rights of American citizens than in the illegal entry of a few aliens or a few shipments of liquor. The commercial treaty which is about to be proposed will cover all phases of smuggling and property rights and will be in the nature of a reciprocity agreement whereby the United States agrees to do for the Mexicans what it asks Mexico to do for Americans.

FLOOD DANGER GROWS AS MISSISSIPPI RISES

La Crosse — (P) — The Mississippi river was slowly nearing the flood stage
here Wednesday when a rise of one fifth of a foot brought the water level up to 11.5 feet. The flood stage here is 12 feet. No damage other than flooding of cellars of houses near the river and lowlands was reported.

SAPIRO TAKES FLOOR AS OWN ATTORNEY IN SUIT AGAINST FORD

Holds Close Attention of Jurors in Reading Magazine Articles

Detroit — (P) — Aaron Sapiro took the floor as an attorney Wednesday in his $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford. He was admitted to practice in the federal district court in which the case is being tried when it opened ten days ago, but it was the first time he had raised his voice. Previously he had confined his court room efforts to whispered conferences with his chief of counsel, William Henry Gallagher of Detroit.

William J. Cameron, editor of the Ford-owned Dearborn Independent, in which were printed articles alleged to have libeled Sapiro, was in the witness chair for the fourth day when Sapiro faced him.

There was no immediate clash between the plaintiff in the suit and the man who Tuesday assumed all responsibility for the printing of the articles.
Instead, Sapiro, speaking in a well modulated voice that held the close attention of the jurors, read from back numbers of the Dearborn Independent articles he asserted were libelous.

GALLAGHER'S VOICE WORN

Gallagher's voice was worn when he first addressed the court Wednesday, after nearly a full day of reading and argument Tuesday.
The six women and six men of the jury closely looked Sapiro over. He was a natty grey suit. He is rather slight of stature and stretched to his full height as he read an article in the issue of October 1926, in which he claimed to be a partner in the company of Otto Kalm, Bernard Baruch Jr., and Aaron Sapiro and lesser Jews. There was no trace of an accent as the former California newsboy read.

Elision of approximately one-third of the 11 specific allegations of libel
in Sapiro's suit against Ford was determined overnight.
They will be cut out in compliance with Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond's suggestion that Sapiro's declaration in the suit was insufficient in many respects and too involved to be comprehended readily by the average juror.

Y. M. C. A. INVITES CONFERENCE HERE

1,000 Boys from All Over State Will Come to Apple- ton for Convention

An invitation to hold the twenty-fifth annual Wisconsin State Older Boys' conference, sponsored by the state Y. M. C. A., in Appleton next fall was issued to the state association
Tuesday evening by the boys work committee of the local association. The invitation was sent to all Y. M. C. A. secretaries to determine whether the conference would be held here and the committee issued the invitation.
The last older boys' conference in Appleton was in 1917.

This is the most important boys'
gathering in the state each year, bringing more than a 1,000 boys together from all parts of the state.
Prominent speakers and boys workers lead the 4-day program and the boys take part in discussion groups.

SHIP DOCTORS GAINING CONTROL OF INFLUENZA

San Francisco — (P) — The army transport Chateau Thierry, with some three score cases of influenza aboard and four of its 900 passengers dead,
continued its race toward San Francisco Wednesday with indications that ship's doctors were gaining control over the epidemic which appeared after the craft left New York recently.
Reassuring radio messages were received here Tuesday from army officers as well as from Representative C.
F. Curry of California, head of a congressional delegation aboard the ship.
The transport was somewhere off the coast of Lower California. Every effort was being made to reach San Francisco ahead of schedule and indications were the boat would make port possibly late Wednesday.

Individual members of the Wisconsin Railroad commission have not changed their opinion that the appointment of the grade crossing on E. Wisconsin-ave. where the Chicago and Northwestern railroad and the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. tracks cross is required in the interest of safety to travel. L. E.
Gettle, secretary of the commission,
said in a telephone conversation with the Post-Crescent Wednesday morning.

The matter of abandoning the viaduct
has never come before the commission as a commission nor in a formal way. Mr. Gettle said, but it had been broached to individual members.
"So far as I have learned none of the members of the commission have changed their opinions concerning the need for this viaduct. If there have been any divergent reports in Appleton concerning the attitude of members of this commission I am inclined to believe they are inaccurate."

Mr. Gettle made it plain that the order of the commission that the viaduct be built will remain in effect until evidence is presented that the situation has changed sufficiently to make its construction unnecessary.
This evidence can be presented only
if formal application is made for reopening the case and a public hearing is held at which everyone will have an opportunity to present testimony.

A movement was started here a few weeks ago to abandon the viaduct project on the ground that the cost to the city will be excessive. It was argued that the damages which will have to be paid by the city to property owners near the viaduct will be great and that a change in the construction plan will make the viaduct much more costly than originally was estimated.

USE OF STICKERS WINS NOMINATION

Racine Man, Entering Mayor- ality Campaign Last Min- ute, Is Victor

Racine — (P) — The use of stickers at Tuesday's primary resulted in John R. Jones, Jr., president of the county board, leading William H. Armstrong by 74 votes in the race for the mayor-ship.

Jones came into the race at the last moment and stickers to the number of 3,551 were pasted on the ballot under the printed name of Mayor Armstrong whose vote was 3,477.
Election officials were, early in the day, ordered to disregard the stickers and not count them as votes for Jones, but later the decision of the supreme court in the case of Frank Agan, Anderson, handed down Jan.
11, 1927, caused the order to be reversed. In the latter case the court ruled that stickers were lawful and clearly showed the intent of the voters.

SOCIALIST IN MILWAUKEE WINS NOMINATION

Milwaukee — (P) — Francis J. Jennings, non-partisan candidate for the civil court bench, and Judge William F. Quick Socialist and incumbent by virtue of an appointment, won the nominations for the judgeship contest in the primary election Tuesday.
Henry H. Bodensht, who was the choice of the bar association, ran third in the race, and D. D. McGarrath trailed in fourth place.

The Socialists succeeded in nominating their entire slate for the school board and the final contest will be between five non-partisans and five socialists.

In the school board contest all of the present members seeking reelection succeeded in getting on the ballot, including Mr. Durand, Mrs. Mc-Lean, Mrs. Berger and Mr. Smith.
The new secretary has been in Y.
W. C. A. work for many years and is now international secretary of the organization. She will retire from
this position to take up her home in Appleton. Miss Wilson probably has
a wide acquaintance among Lawrence alumni than any other individual, Mr. Anderson said.

CHICAGO DOCTOR TALKS TO MEDICS AT MEETING

Dr. Edward A. Oliver of Chicago, who associated with Dr. Oliver Ormsby, will conduct a clinic on skin diseases and will talk on the same subject at a meeting of the Outagamie-Medical society Thursday afternoon and evening. The clinic will be held at St. Elizabeth hospital, and a dinner at Hotel Northern at 6:30 will precede the address.
Several doctors from outside the association have been invited and a large attendance is expected. Dr. J. B.
MacLaren, president of the association, said.

IDENTIFY BODY OF BOY RECOVERED FROM LAKE

Chicago — (P) — The body of a boy found in the lake near Lake Front park, Gary, was identified Wednesday as that of Andrew Seubek, 11, by his father. Belief was expressed the boy had come to his death through rough play. He disappeared March 15
with a brother and another youth.
Police and coroner's assistants declared death due to drowning.

All city officers whose terms expire
this spring were renominated at the primary election Tuesday, although some of them received fewer votes than their opponents. There were 2, 522 votes cast for alderman and 2, 312 were polled for supervisor. The largest vote was recorded in the Third ward where 740 people voted for alderman and 720 voted for supervisor.
The smallest vote was cast in the Second ward where only 106 people cast ballots for alderman and 90 voted for supervisor.

Mark Catlin with 182 votes and P.
M. Shoemaker with 107 votes were nominated for alderman from the First ward. There were no other candidates. Otto Theissenhusen with 147 votes and L. F. Bushey with 113 voted for supervisor.

"PEACHES" OPTIMISTIC REGARDING HER FUTURE

New York — (P) — "Peaches" Browning was somewhat more optimistic
Wednesday over loss of the separation suit against her wealthy husband, Edward W. Browning.

"I've got $150 in the bank, my separated rent is paid until the first of April and who knows but the tide
may turn by then," she said. "March always was my hoo-doo month anyway. That's the month in which I met Mr. Browning. And now Judge Seeger's decision coming in March."
"Peaches," who attended a Broadway show Tuesday night with a young man, says she has numerous vaudeville and night club offers. Henry Epstein, her counsel, said she would not seek an annulment, since dower rights would amount to nearly $500, 000 in case of the death of Mr. Browning.

ANDERSON RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF ALUMNI

The resignation of A. P. Anderson, alumni secretary at Lawrence college was accepted Monday night at a meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence college Alumni association.
Miss Elizabeth Wilson of the class of 1890, was elected to succeed him. No definite arrangements have been made as to when Miss Wilson will take up her duties here.

The new secretary has been in Y.
W. C. A. work for many years and is
now international secretary of the
Appleton. Miss Wilson probably has
a wide acquaintance among Law-

Nab 22 Under Liquor Law At Stevens Point, Plover

Stevens Point — (P) — Moving with the same swiftness and celerity that accompanied cleanups of Hurley, Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids,
Deputy United States Marshall Ed
Miller late Tuesday arrested 22 under liquor laws at Stevens Point and Plover on charges of violating the Volstead act.

Working quietly, Miller served the warrants charging possession and sale of liquor, and the prisoners were scheduled to appear Wednesday and Thursday before United States Court Commissioner Drayton E. Smith at Wausau for arraignment.
Those caught in the net served by the forces directed by Stanley M.
Ryan, youthful United States district
attorney, are as follows:
Frank Kubiak, saloonkeeper operating a place outside city limits; John Busher, employed by Kubiak.

U. S. MARINES HAVE NEW CANINE MASCOT, GENE TUNNEY'S GIFT

New York — (P) — The late Sergeant Major Jiggs, bulldog mascot of the Quantico marines and full-fledged member of the corps, will be replaced by an English bull, gift of Gene Tunney.
The heavyweight champion who fought through the world war as a lieutenant of reserves, has turned the dog over to local recruiting officers. The newcomer to the service promptly was dubbed "Jiggs"
and will be taken to recruiting headquarters in Washington next week. Jiggs weighs 45 pounds and 17 months old, has a pedigree and practically no nose at all.

ARCHITECT SUES HOME BUILDER FOR DRAWING PLANS

Earl F. Miller, Inc., Seeks $240 Judgment from George
C. Fannon

A verbal contract, alleged to have been broken by one of the contracting parties, is the background for a suit which opened Wednesday morning in the higher branch of municipal court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann. An allegation of prejudice was filed against Judge Theodore Berg by the defendant.

The Earl F. Miller, Inc., architects, is seeking a judgment of $240 against George C. Fannon for services alleged to have been performed for the defendant.

The plaintiff contends that in the summer of 1922, he was employed by the defendant to draw plans for a home, and that the contracting parties
then agreed that sketches, blue prints and specification for the project be prepared. The estimated cost of the work was $30,000 and $12,000.

After he had completed the plans and other work agreed upon verbally,
the defendant, without informing the plaintiff, engaged another architect, according to the complaint. Miller is suing for $240 for his services.

IKE WALTONS TO HEAR PINCHOT'S ADDRESS

Richard Sykes, temporary president of the Appleton chapter of the Isaac Walton League of America, organized here a few weeks ago, S. B.
Rindal, F. A. W. Hammond and William H. Zuehlke, members of the chapter, will go to Madison Thursday to attend the session of the state legislature. Gifford Pinchot, former ex-governor to Pennsylvania, and an ardent conservationist, will address the legislature on Conservation, a subject in which the local chapter is planning an active program. They also will visit Governor Fred R. Zimmerman in behalf of a conservation program.

SPEEDER IS FINED $10 AND COSTS BY JUDGE

Walter Brockhaus, 721 E. Hancock st., was fined $10 and costs of $3.20 Wednesday morning in municipal court for speeding. He was arrested at 10:20 Tuesday evening by Motorcycle Officer F. F. Arnold, who reported that he was traveling 28 miles an hour on E. North-st. The motorist pleaded guilty.

STATE BUDGET EXPERT ASKED BY SEVERSON

Iola Senator Says Public Af- fairs Committee Are Mere Figureheads

Madison — (P) — Charging that members of the board of public affairs are merely figureheads and have nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the legislative budget, as is generally believed, Senator H. J. Severson, Iola, appeared before the senate committee on state and local government
Tuesday in defense of his bill providing for abolition of the board and creation of a new post to be known as "financial expert." This "financial expert" would be appointed by the governor, held responsible to the governor and could be removed by the governor.

Senator Severson pointed out the existing board meets but once or twice a year and emphasized that the secretary of the board and other employees in the department are the persons who prepare the budget. Generally these employees prepare the budget so as not to "step on the toes" of certain department leaders, he said.
"There is altogether too much passivity of the buck under our present system," he continued, "and the creation of a financial expert would eliminate this evil. It would just be a case of one man doing what nine are now supposed to do."

NEW LENROOT RESOLUTION

A substitute for the resolution thanking Mr. Lenroot for his services in pushing the dairy law in congress,
was introduced into the assembly Wednesday by Assemblyman "Rowlands."

The resolution thanks the whole Wisconsin congressional delegation for work on the bill which was intended to eliminate the dairy law in congress.

That was the form in which the assembly put the original resolution by amendment, but the senate, turning down the resolution at first, finally passed it with an amendment changing it back to the form in which it was introduced by Lenroot. The assembly refused concurrence in the senate amendment.

Quickly settling its contest over repeal of the law requiring "alum" labels of baking powder containing that substance, the assembly Wednesday night finally ordered the bill passed and finished a long calendar
that had been held up by debate.

CALL TO HOUSE IS ISSUED IN ASSEMBLY

Action Taken on Tews Resolution on Government Operation of Railways

Madison — (P) — Consideration of the resolution by Assemblyman Tews, Jirah, was postponed until the assembly takes immediate steps toward government ownership and operation of the railroads of the country brought a call to the house, in the assembly Wednesday. All members must be brought in when the body is under
"call" and the session many times has lasted throughout the day and night.
The "call" was moved by Assemblyman Ingalls of Racine.

There was no indication of how many members were out of the city and therefore no forecast as to how long the call might be held.
The call on the resolution was finally lifted but another was immediately imposed upon the body when it took up consideration of another measure
by the same author.

STEVENS POINT FARMER FATALLY HURT IN CRASH

Stevens Point — (P) — Fred Rutta, 46, a farmer living five miles north of Stevens Point, was injured fatally Tuesday by an explosion of dynamite with which a stump field was being cleared. A premature explosion blew off both hands and blinded Rutta and he died on the way to a hospital in Stevens Point. He was unmarried.

11 FRATERNITY MEN "INITIATED" INTO BADGER INFIRMARY

Madison — (P) — An initiation ceremony which proved a "dud" as far as the freshman victim was concerned, boomeranged, eleven members of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity into the State University infirmary.
The neophyte, told he must place his hand in "hot lead solution," was bludgeoned. A change of solution, which the initiation program called for, would substitute a pot of cold mercury to give the desired effect, but the fraternity had no "hot lead."
The mercury was heated and spreading mercurial fumes produced such a "foggy" reaction on the initiators that the ceremony was drawn down upon the ceremony
before the freshman was called to the room. The initiation has been indefinitely postponed.

ARREST OF BADGER DOCTOR IS ORDERED; WIFE'S BODY FOUND

Woman Taken from Potomac River Identified as Mrs.
Gladys Houck

Washington, D. C. — (P) — After the finding of a woman's body in the Potomac river, the Washington police department telegraphed to the Madison authorities to take into custody for investigation Dr. Knute Houck, La Crosse, formerly a physician at St. Elizabeth hospital here, whose wife disappeared
several months ago. The police said the body had been identified as that of Mrs. Gladys Houck by calling cards on her person.

The woman had been missing from her home here since Dec. 17. Dr.
Houck was found in an extreme nervous condition at Hopwell, N. Y., two days later and was brought back to Washington where he was placed under observation at the Gallinger hospital.

LAST SEEN DEC. 17

Mrs. Houck was seen alive on the night of Dec. 17, when several friends came over from St. Elizabeth's hospital to call on her and her husband, who was then a young member of the hospital's psychiatric staff.
Two days later Dr. Houck was found tramping around the streets of Hornell, clothed in his underwear. His wife was never able to throw any light on his disappearance, although he had expressed confidence that she was still alive. After undergoing treatment both here and in Baltimore, Dr.
Houck went to La Crosse to join his relatives. A small child left alone by the couple, was taken in charge of Mrs. Houck's parents.

HOUCK IS IN WEST

La Crosse — (P) — Dr. Knute Houck, husband of Mrs. Gladys Houck, who disappeared from their home in Washington, D. C., to the mysterious finding of his wife's body in the Potomac river, was seen in Oregon with his mother, Dr. Mary Piper Houck, of this city. The Houcks left La Crosse
a week ago, telling friends that they were going west, where Dr. Knute Houck might get outdoor manual labor to assist his recuperation from his recent mental breakdown.

HIS OWN GUN FRIGHTENS BANDIT IN TRAIN HOLDUP

Ashville, N. C. — (P) — An unidentified bandit, although still at large Wednesday, was 550 poorer because the discharge of an air revolver so frightened him he cut short his attempted robbery of the Carolina Special, crack Southern railway passenger train, and jumped for safety.

WORLD LEAGUE WILL NOT HEAR JUGO-SLAV DISPUTE

London — (P) — Foreign Minister Chamberlain yesterday said that the dispute between Italy and Jugoslavia will have to be referred to the league of nations. He informed the house of commons Wednesday that according to his information, it would not be necessary.

SENATE ENDS LONG DISPUTE BY 23-9 VOTE

Probe Board Finds "No Direct Influence" in Appoint- ment by Governor

ACTION ON DONAGHEY HIT Investigating Group Doubts Wisdom of Employing "Interested" Persons

Madison — (P) — The senate Wednesday confirmed the appointment of J.
T. Nemaček, La Crosse, as member of the state highway commission.
The appointment, made by Governor Zimmerman some time ago, has been argued repeatedly in the senate and postponed several times during the report of the joint legislative investigating committee which inquired into the troubles of the highway department.

The vote on confirmation was 23 to 9. The confirmation followed presentation of the investigation committee report which in part said that the committee found "no direct influence and no ulterior motives" in the appointment of Nemaček to succeed
Al C. Anderson on the commission.

The nine senators voting against the confirmation were: Barker, Cashman, Englund, Gettleman, Goodland, Hunt, Polakowski, Ruffing and South-off. Senator Chase was absent at the time the roll was called.

Mr. Anderson's term expires shortly before the state legislature convenes in May. Mr. Nemaček was dismissed from the post of chief highway engineer. The investigation grew out of this dismissal and Nemaček's appointment.

OIL PAINTINGS ON EXHIBIT THIS WEEK AT RUSSELL SAGE

Professor Fairfield to Lecture on Pictures Thursday Afternoon

Representative pictures of some of the best known contemporary American painters in America are being shown this week at Russell Sage hall as a part of the exhibit of original oil paintings arranged by Lawrence college through the American Federation of Arts. An explanatory lecture on the figure paintings will be given by Prof. Otho P. Fairfield of the Art department of Lawrence college at 4:15 Thursday afternoon.

The exhibit of 24 paintings includes ten portraits displayed at the dormitory and 11 landscapes and three flower and fruit studies shown in the art classroom on the second floor of the Lawrence college library. Luis Mora and Ivan Olinsky are the most prominent of the portrait painters represented in this collection.

A picture entitled Tunisian Bedouins by Rolshoven shows two women's figures in the foreground painted in rich colors of a low key. They stand against a background of white stucco-roofed houses of Tunis. A still life by a young woman is painted by Ivan Olinsky, teacher of art in New York City and Russian born. Ettore Caser, an Italian by birth, has painted a girl of the past in a bright ruffled gown. She sits against a background in dark rich greens, reds and yellows. A Spanish type called Rose-Mary Sewing has been painted by Mora with a beautiful effect.

Others represented in this group are Henry Watrous, who paints in the old classic style, Charles Curran, famed for his pictures of girls and women out of doors, Alpheus Cole, son of Timothy Cole who is known for his engravings of paintings by the masters, Neilson whose work reminds one of Velasquez, Gleason, president of the Grand Central Art school in New York City, and Renwick who was one of the pioneers in the painting of nude figures.

2 WORK 45 YEARS FOR SAME EMPLOYER

Joseph Lausman and Charles Kranzuch Have Envious
Employment Records

Joseph Lausman of the Kimberly-Clark Co. Atlas mill, Appleton, and Charles Kranzuch of the company's mill at Kimberly, have the longest continuous service record of employees of Appleton and Kimberly, according to a list compiled by the Appleton chamber of commerce in conjunction with the veteran employees dinner on March 30. Both Mr. Lausman and Mr. Kranzuch have served their respective companies continuously for 45 years. The list compiled by the chamber contains the five employees with the longest continuous service records and the four employers with the same record.

Adolph Tock of the Patten Paper Co. is third on the list with 44 years, followed by Henry DeCoster of the same company with 43, and Nicholas Mergen of the Fox River Paper Co. with 42.

O. F. Schaefer of the Schaefer Hardware Co. has the longest record for employers, 51 years. Other employers with long records are F. J. Hardwood, Appleton Woolen Mills, 46 years; F. E. Saecker, Appleton Machine Co., 44 years; O. W. Schaefer, Appleton Volkstrund, 41 years.

Approximately 194 employees representing 17 firms of Appleton and Kimberly will be guests at the banquet the latest report shows. The Riverside Fibre and Paper Co. is the latest to send in its veteran list and Pettibone-Peabody Co. and the City of Appleton are expected to turn in their lists by Monday.

Hiram Bingham, Bravest Senator, Heads For Death

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — Into the jaws of death sails Senator Hiram K. Bingham, the bravest man in the Senate. Bithely he left us and assuming that he escapes alive, he will return with the same unruffled mien which he has somehow always managed to retain in those more or less august precincts of the upper house.

Even as the cables provided the final figure on the death toll of the latest Japanese earthquake, Senator Bingham was headed for the land of Nippon.

As the Chinese war grows hotter, Senator Bingham is also on his way toward Shanghai by way of Peking. And if the earthquakes or the coolies don't get him, the Moro head hunters will have their chance, for the senator subsequently plans to spend three weeks in the Philippines.

We who have been privileged to observe Senator Bingham in action—if his calm, measured movements and utterances may be called action—can easily visualize the scene in case he meets grave menace from any of the sources of peril which lie along his path.

Should an earthquake begin to swallow him up in the terrestrial bowels, it is doubtful whether even a shout of dishevelment would be permitted to darken his shining countenance. If he made any effort to escape, there certainly would be nothing undignified about it. He might, indeed, speak. Judging from past performances under fire, he probably would address himself to Jehovah—or perhaps the native deity, Buddha, for Senator Bingham was never impolite—somewhat as follows:

"My Dear Sir, the sovereign state of Connecticut seems about to be deprived of an able and conscientious representative. A fairly good constitutional lawyer, an authority on the Spanish language and the Latin-American countries, the Monroe doctrine and commercial aviation, seems to be slipping into goodness knows what. If allowed to proceed on his contemplated journey, he would return to his country an expert on the Chinese situation, the Japanese situation and upon the military and territorial affairs of the Philippines and Hawaii—and earthquakes. My Dear Sir, in the light of these facts, I suggest that you think it over."

Even if he knew things were happening so rapidly that he couldn't finish a third of his speech, Senator Bingham would not speed up nor would he slur his words. This would be no excited prayer for succor.

And in the face of a Chinese firing squad or a murderous tribesman, Senator Bingham would say virtually the same thing in exactly the same manner. That's Bingham.

Tall, spare, white-haired and possessed of the most scholarly appearance in Congress, he goes through life with the attitude of a pedagogue who knows that no smart student is ever going to trip him up.

It is thus that he speaks to the Senate in a colorless monotone which never deviates in pitch. It is said that he can empty the galleries more rapidly than almost anyone else—he never plays to them. Generally, too, he arises in the wake of a powerful speech by someone like Borah or Reed and the contrast is too much for the sensation-seeking crowds.

He is brave because he has stood up against all kinds of verbal abuse from his more oratorical opponents. Under blasts that would make some senators turn tail and run, he waits patiently and then replies—patiently and conscientiously explaining a simple problem to the worst dumb-bell in the class. Nobody ever gets under his skin. Nobody can ever arouse him to hot retort.

His somewhat unfortunate appointment of himself to act as administration spokesman when the administration debated one very badly—during the first debate on the Nicaraguan situation—was an excellent sample of how well Bingham stands the strain. And as for nerve, no one could have matched him when he had to explain, patiently that he had been mistaken when he wrote a book called "The Monroe Doctrine, an Obsolete Shibboleth."

It is with conscientious, scholarly determination that Bingham sails out into the Pacific. As a senator, he wants to know more about the Chinese situation and about Japan. As a scholar, he wants to consider the various temples, the Chinese wall and what-not. As a member of both the senator's military affairs committee, he desires to study the aviation fields, military posts and territorial governments of Hawaii and the Philippines.

In these two possessions he will spend most of his stationary time—from May 12 to June 3 in the Philippines and from June 24 to July 8 in Hawaii. He will be back in San Francisco on July 11 and information on the fruits of his tour will be available during the Seventieth Congress.

STATE UNABLE TO PROVIDE HELP ON WISCONSIN AVENUE

Mayor Agrees Pavement Should Be 28 Feet Wide if Aid Is Refused

There is little hope of receiving aid from the state highway commission for the Wisconsin-ave paving project, according to Mayor A. C. Rulo who with Aldermen Mark Catlin and Charles Fose and City Engineer H. M. Connelly, met with the commission at Madison Monday afternoon.

The entire highway commission was not present at the meeting and the special council committee has been invited to come to Madison again Wednesday for a further discussion of the problem. It is not possible, according to information given the council committee, to receive aid direct from the state because all state aid is given to the county board to distribute as it sees fit.

Taxpayers on Wisconsin-ave have petitioned the council to reduce the width of the pavement from 25 to 23 feet, provided no aid is available. A wide pavement would not be necessary if the state trunk highway did not pass over this street, the petitioners point out, and they should not therefore be obliged to pay for the extra 10 feet.

"I agree with the Wisconsin-ave residents and I do not believe they should be forced to pay for the extra 10 feet of pavement," Mayor Rulo declared. "Unless some way is found out of the present difficulty I think that the size of this pavement will have to be reduced as it would be unfair to make these people pay for a 25-foot pavement whereas people on streets where state trunk highways do not pass only for 23 feet."

GREEK WOMEN BETTER STUDENTS THAN MEN

Sorority women at Lawrence college are better students than their Greek letter contemporaries of the opposite sex, judging from the grades made by the 17 fraternities and sororities on the local campus during the first semester of the present school year. However, the men are nearing the marks of the coeds, having shown a gain for the term, whereas the sororities recorded a slight decrease.

The sorority average was 82.18 per cent while the fraternity mark was 80.18, and increase of 2.45 per cent over last year's average.

Banjos ANNOUNCEMENT

We have arranged with Mr. Herschel Bauer, who will be connected with our string instrument department. Mr. Bauer has played with several of the leading dance orchestras of the country, including the Gabel-Hiatt Band, and Zee Confrey; he has toured Orpheum Circuit Vaudeville, and is at present playing at the Rainbow Gardens. He will be pleased to demonstrate banjos, and other string instruments and will be especially interested in instructions for beginners.

CATCHY MUSIC IS BIG FEATURE OF HAREFOOT COMEDY

University Dramatic Club Brings Strong Cast Here
for "Meet the Prince"

Musical numbers and pretty "ladies" will feature the musical comedy, "Meet the Prince," the twenty-ninth annual production of the University of Wisconsin club of the University of Wisconsin which will be presented at Fischer's Appleton theatre on the afternoon and evening of April 13. All the "lady" roles in the comedy will be taken by men members of the club. The music and lyrics for this year's show, have been contributed mostly by former active members of the organization who have still retained an interest in the club.

Owen Lyons, '26 of Appleton, who wrote the book for "Mary Ann" which was presented last year by the club, has written one or two selections for this year's production. Other former members who have contributed music and lyrics are Henry Scott Rubel, '23, Milwaukee; Dr. Earl Carpenter, '23, Superior; Cecil Brodt, '22, Madison; John Powell, '26, Madison; Jesse Cohen, '24, Madison. Two undergraduates who have submitted selections for the comedy are John Stuart, '27, Springfield, Ill. and Jack Mason, '29, Canton, Ohio. The play, "Meet the Prince," was written by John Moran, Jr., a student in the college of Letters and Science. The direction of the show is under the supervision of Bill Purnell. The scenery for the production is made up in the club's own shops, and there the lighting effects also are developed. The business end of the club is handled entirely by male undergraduates of the university.

The story of the play evolves around a student educational tour through Europe, the love affairs of the skipper of the ship and the sponsor's daughter and of the first mate and an Americanized, collegiate Princess and of their pal, Gus, the baggage smasher, and the daughter of the inn-keeper of the "Three Golden Apples" at Heidelberg.

Kerbert Earle of Chicago, takes the part of the beautiful princess, "Gretchen," in this year's show. Last year Mr. Earle was the vamp in "Mary Ann."

The show this year will be presented in Rockford, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Peoria, Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Appleton, Janesville and Madison. This will be the first Harefoot show in St. Louis and Janesville. Mail orders for tickets will be received April 3 at Bell's Drug store and the ticket sale at the box office will open April 11.

POSTPONE MEETING OF PUBLIC WORKS BOARD

A meeting of the board of public works was postponed from Tuesday afternoon until Friday afternoon. The board was to discuss the paving projects on Washington-st. and Wisconsin-ave. All data concerning these two projects had not been gathered according to the mayor, and therefore the meeting was postponed.

PICK NETBALL STARS TO FORM TOURNEY TEAM

James Murray, Dr. R. V. Landis, C. Remley, Alfred Bradford, E. E. Schlitz, John Bartman, Guy Barlow and John Keller were chosen to represent the Appleton Y. M. C. A. in the district volleyball tourney here in April by a vote of 24 men who had taken part in the Seasonal netball meet completed last week. Earlier in the year the best players in each gymnasium class of the association formed an inter-gymnasium class tournament. The participants then selected the 24 best players and these took part in another tourney. At the end of the second meet the 24 players balanced on their eight best to form the official association team. Murray, Landis, Remley and Bradford were named spikers on the team and the other four men will act as passers. All have played in past state tournaments. The team will play its first practice match at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The Lawrence college faculty team, also a district tourney entry, will be the opponent.

LIBERAL TRAINING BEST FOR SUCCESS

Wriston Notices Trend Away
from Professional Training
in College

Professional training does not tend to make for success as much as a liberal arts course because the latter develops the personality and natural ability in a broader way, Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, said in an address to the student body Monday morning at convocation services.

At a meeting of 30 Lawrence alumni in New York recently, Dr. Wriston asked them to tell what had been their plans for future work when they were in college. Almost all had changed their ideas and were now successes in new fields of activity. If they had had professional training for occupations they wanted when in college, they probably would not be as successful now, he believed.

The demand for specialized training is decreasing in business and the demand for courses in liberal arts is increasing, the president said. This has been observed in all sections of the country. Eighty per cent of preparation was for personality, according to a survey recently made of New York employments, he cited. To get along with others and to persevere were the chief factors, the president believed.

WIRE TICKS

New York - (AP) - The modern politician has golf clubs instead of gun shoes. At least that's the case with him, says Charles D. Hilles back from a tour to size up Coolidge sentiment.

Chicago - The berth of a nation is passing. New type pullman cars contain 14 rooms with regular beds.

Washington - In a few months you will know whether your arithmetic on or before March 15 was right. The government is to make everybody who filed an income tax return whether it was made out correctly.

Chicago - Steve is an alley dog of uncertain ancestry but he's no mutt. He took it from his boy owner, Frank Brown. "He's a self-made pedagogue dog. He caught a robber and saved a policeman." And he's crashed the gates to the exclusive Knickerbocker club and won a special ribbon and gold medal.

New York - A mutt who is a thoroughbred in one way at least, is to have a nice home. A white French poodle, struck by an automobile in the Bronx, was shot. Before the body could be removed from the street along came a mongrel. For 21 hours it stood guard showing teeth to anyone who tried to chase it away. Not even food tempted it. Finally Irving Lelsch, pet shop owner, captured it with difficulty.

KIMBERLY SLIPS LAST PERIOD WIN OVER BOOSTER TEAM

Millmen Break Tie in Last Four Minutes and Cop Game by 37 to 31 Score

Neenah—The Kimberly basketball team defeated the Neenah Boosters Tuesday evening in a S. A. Cook armory by a score of 37 to 31 in a fast game. The teams were evenly matched and kept within a few points of each other during the entire contest. In the last quarter the teams were tied until the last four minutes when the Kimberly players found the basket for six points. The score at the half was 19 and 20 in Kimberly's favor and at the end of the third quarter the score was 27 to 23 in Neenah's favor.

The game was played before a small crowd.

FIFTY FARMERS EAT WITH KIWANIS AT GET-TOGETHER MEET

Williams Reviews Life of Governor Hoard and Talks on Cooperation

Neenah—The annual get-together of the Kiwanis club and rural residents occurred Tuesday noon at the Valley Inn at the regular weekly meeting of the club. About 50 men from the rural districts were guests of the club and heard a review of the life of Ex-Gov. William D. Hoard of Ex-Gov. by Norman Williams. The speaker told of Mr. Hoard's stand with the farmers and for the farmers, how he had been instrumental in having hills pass the legislature which would be of benefit to the farmer; his stand in teaching the American language in parochial schools and of his paper which he founded for the farmer.

Herman Lho, master of the Wisconsin State Grange and an officer of the national grange, was a guest and gave a short talk on relationship between the farmer and the city.

Music was furnished by an orchestra composed of Arthur Schultz, Elmer Schultze and Ernest Dutcher, and by Lud Hanson of Oshkosh who entertained with several songs and vocal selections.

CHURCH SCHOOL HOLDS ANNUAL BOOSTER DINNER

Menasha—The annual booster dinner under the auspices of the church school of St. Thomas Episcopal church, Washington-st., on behalf of the lenten offering will be held Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, and immediately following the dinner the Thursday evening services will be held. The subject of the Rev. Mr. Packer's sermon will be He Came to Himself.

The Rev. Roy W. Mason, rector of St. Augustine church, Rhineclander, will conduct the 11 o'clock morning services at St. Thomas church next Sunday.

BISPING STARTS TAKING ROUGH FISH OUT OF LAKE

Menasha—August Bisping has commenced netting rough fish in Little Lake Winnebago and has made several fairly good hauls. The lake is now open and quite a few fish are being caught daily with hook and line.

STUDENTS SHOW FORENSIC TALENT

Pick Winners in Oratory and Declamation to Enter District Contest

Menasha—Unusual talent was shown by high school students in the local forensic contest Tuesday afternoon and Tuesday evening at the local high school. In the afternoon first place in oratory was won by John Novakofski with the selection, "I Am Innocent of Ills Blood"; second place was won by Richard Schlegel with the selection, "The Prophecy Tragedy." In the extemporaneous reading contest, Lucille Schwartz won first place and Dorothy Stielow second place.

In the evening in the extemporaneous speaking contest John Anderson won first place and Robert Schwartz won second place. In the declamatory contest, Betty Weyenberg won a unanimous decision with the selection, "The New Immigrant," and Lucille Schwartz won a unanimous decision for second place with the selection, "Buddy and Vaffie." Annabel Birling won third place.

Winners of first and second place in these contests will represent Menasha high school in the league contest to be held at Seymour on Friday, April 8. According to the Wisconsin Forensic association rules Seymour, Janesville and Stevens are in the league this year. Winners of first and second place in the league contest will represent their respective schools in the sub-district contest to be held at Menasha, Friday, April 22.

The judges Tuesday were Miss Jeanette Manville, Kaukauna high school; Supt. J. B. Layde, West De Pere;

FILIBUSTER CUTS OFF MONEY TO PAY COURT WITNESSES

Postoffice Improvement in Appleton Is Postponed for at Least a Year

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—Federal courts in Wisconsin will be slowed down to a walk within the next two weeks as a result of the filibuster in which the Senate ended the Sixty-ninth congress. Dockets of both Judge Geiger and Judge Luce are expected to become more congested. United States Attorneys Morse and Ryan and United States Marshals White and Harris have been informed of the lack of witness and jurors fees, bailiff's pay and even money to pay for food of prisoners.

A conference will be held by Judge Geiger, District Attorney Morse and United States Marshal White of the Eastern Wisconsin district shortly to determine what part of the docket can be handled in April, May and June in view of the lack of money to pay jurors, witnesses, etc. A similar conference will be held by Judge Luce, District Attorney Ryan and United States Marshal Harris in the Western district.

Attorney General Sargent in letters addressed to United States Marshals White and Harris explained that payment of bills for postoffice service and supplies must be postponed. Clogging of the judicial machine was little considered when the deficiency bill failed, the principal stress having been put on other matters.

The effect of the filibuster on Wisconsin becomes more clearly outlined each week.

Among the Wisconsin inconveniences, and in some case hardships, caused by the filibuster as revealed since Congress adjourned are:

Non-enforcement for a time because of lack of funds of the Lenroot milk law, designed to keep out of the United States milk not produced under the same sanitary conditions as obtained in the United States. Senator Lenroot's fight for this law recently won him the voted thanks of the Wisconsin legislature.

Approximately 12,671 men and women, which is their entire pension roll for Wisconsin, will not receive their pension checks on May 4 and June 4. This will fall especially heavily on the aged men and women who depend for their living entirely upon the monthly pension checks. Should any of these pensioners die the money will remain in the Treasury as pensions cannot be paid to estates. To those living the three months check will go on July 4. Lumber operations on the Menominee reservation probably will be curtailed.

Hope of the federal government buying any forest lands in the state of Wisconsin this year definitely ended.

Federal building program for Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Racine, Kenosha, Beloit, Waunakee, Appleton, La Crosse, and Two Rivers definitely postponed for a year, and curtailment necessary on the Madison building although some work can be done there.

Negotiation of St. Lawrence water-

People In Luck, Wis., Feel Sure Of Happiness

Madison—(P)—There may be other names sweeter but Luck, Wisconsin, received its peculiar name for almost obvious reasons. At least the Wisconsin Historical Society, in compiling Wisconsin names and their derivations has decided so.

Luck, in folk-co, was named by its organizer, D. F. Smith, who defended his selection in the following statement: "I propose to be in 'Luck' the rest of my life."

Not less than five cities and towns in the state are geographic namesakes of United States presidents. Those presidents whose last names are perpetuated in Wisconsin are George Washington, James Madison, James K. Polk, James Monroe, and Franklin Pierce.

The Indian, naturally, played a major role in selecting Wisconsin names. Incidentally, Waukesha, came from the Indian but indirectly. The first white settlers in choosing the name of the site thought it appropriate to follow the lead of neighboring towns and selected "Wagoshag," meaning "Fox." Inability to pronounce the red

WATERING TROUGHS MAY BE REMOVED

Alderman Steinhauer Will Introduce Resolution at Council Meeting

Another suggestion of the "good old days that used to be" soon will be removed if a resolution to be introduced by Alderman Mike Steinhauer of the First ward at the next council meeting is approved. Alderman Steinhauer will propose the removal of the remaining six water troughs in the city.

"The watering troughs each cost $240 a year, or $2,040," said Alderman Steinhauer. "I estimate that not more than 2,000 drinks a year are taken from all the troughs, which means that each drink costs approximately $1."

With the growing popularity of the motor truck, which has practically replaced the horse as a means of local transportation, the need for watering troughs is less each year, according to alderman Steinhauer and the cost of maintenance is greater than the benefit derived.

CLINKER PAYS FOR COAL
Came Charles, Va.—When a clinker jammed the grate of her coal stove, Mrs. Edgar A. Nottingham removed it, found it to be a lump of shiny metal. A jeweler remelted and tested the substance, pronounced it 20-karat gold worth $7.20. Mrs. Nottingham rushed home, sifted ashes, found nothing more.

way treaty will be delayed because of lack of money to open new Canadian embassy.
Dozens of other minor activities of the federal government in Wisconsin will be curtailed.

man's term lead to the present nomenclature.

Probably neither the residents of Eau Claire or Stevens Point could pronounce their original Indian names. Eau Claire or Clear Water is "Way-yah-con-ut-la-qua-yaw." While residents at "The Point" would have to struggle with "Kah-kag-e-winch-e-min-it-e-gong." The Indian missionary J. D. Stevens and George Stevens, first white man settling at Stevens Point are also credited with having the city named in their honor.

La Crosse, "la Prairie de la Crosse," is named after the Indian game, which was played by the Sioux on the flat prairies between the guardian hills and bluffs of Wisconsin and Minnesota. The game was carried on during the winter months on the ice covered Mississippi River.

Green Bay, is a corruption of the French, "la grande baie," meaning the "large bay." Another suggestion is that the name of the bay has a greenish or emerald tint.

The name Wausau is another corruption, in this case, coming from "wassa," a Chippewa term meaning "far away or a long distance." Pong-du Lac, "foot of the lake," is distinctly French.

Racine was named by the Jesuit missionaries. Their term for a river filled with roots was "racine" and when a party of them camped at a site where the present city is now located, they named the river the "River of Racine," now the "Root River." The county took the name "Racine," and the city adopted it later.

The great spirit of the "Manito" was instrumental in the name of Manitowish. Oshkosh was derived from the Indian name for "brave" and Menominee is the red man's name for "wild rice people."

Marinette Chevalier, the daughter of a Chippewa mother and a French father, who became famed among the trappers as a fur trader was honored when the city of Marinette adopted her first name. It is the abbreviation of Marie Antoinette.

Kenosha was derived either from the Indian name for "pickering" or "pike," written "Gin-no-sha" and "kenoshe," while Superior receives its name from its location on Lake Superior.

Milwaukee is a blending of "Mel-liake," the old name of the river, and "Mahn-a-waukee," a gathering place, and "Milokac," meaning good earth.

Beloit is one of those cities bearing a coined name selected by a committee to whom was suggested the name of Detroit. A large share of other Wisconsin cities bear the names of their founders, including Janesville, founded by Henry F. Jones, the first postmaster; Appleton, in honor of Samuel Appleton, an old settler and one of the founders of Lawrence college, and Marshfield, influenced by the residence of J. J. Marsh, an influential citizen.

The derivation of "Wisconsin" incidentally, has not been settled. There is the Indian term for red stone, "misconsin," and a term for muskrat lodge, "Ojibwasing." Polish settlers argued the honor was partly theirs, that the state was named after a certain T. Wisconsin, one of the first and most influential settlers in this region.

3 MILLION DOLLAR LIBRARY PROPOSED FOR UNIVERSITY

Structure Would Be Memorial to Late Senator Robert M. La Follette

Madison—(P)—A $3,000,000 library for the University of Wisconsin as a memorial, to Robert M. La Follette has been proposed by Senator John E. Cashman through the introduction of a bill in the state senate.

The proposal, according to Senator Cashman, has the support of admirers of the late senator, who look upon it as most fitting to his ideals and principles, and also of university leaders, who point to the project as "the most pressing need of the university."

The building, according to tentative plans drafted by Arthur Peabody, state architect, would be erected at State and Park Streets directly across from the State Historical library, with which it would be connected by underground tunnels.

By terms of Senator Cashman's bill, the first unit would be built at a cost of $1,500,000, which would include $500,000 appropriated by the last legislature for an addition to the State Historical library, but which has not yet been used for that purpose.

"Of all plans proposed for a La Follette memorial, the late senator's friends consider this the most fitting," Senator Cashman said today.

"La Follette would want something that would be useful in building the future democracy. Education was one of his chief interests, and if it were possible to know his wishes, I am sure he would want the memorial to fill some definite need."

"The library would stand as a constant reminder to the young students of our state that courage and adherence to principles will be rewarded by the common people—as shown in the memory of the university's greatest alumnus and the state's foremost citizen."

The bill, which was introduced a month ago by title, but the provision of which were not definitely revealed until Friday, was referred to the committee on education for hearing. Later it will go to the finance committee.

The library memorial was decided upon by supporters of the plan following conferences with President Glenn Frank and J. D. Phillips, business manager of the university, and with Walter M. Smith, librarian of the historical library.

So cramped have the library accommodations become, it was pointed out, that the university is able to supply only one seat for every 23.5 students. With the enrollment constantly increasing, the situation grows worse every year, it was declared.

The problem of book storage has become so critical that it probably will soon become necessary to box up and store many thousands of books before any relief can be made available. Mr. Smith informed Sen. Cashman.

Mr. Smith, in his communication to Sen. Cashman, quoted from a memorandum prepared by the president and business manager as follows:

"From a purely educational point of view, the extension of library reading room facilities is presented as the most pressing need of the university. In comparison with those of other great universities, the reading room facilities for our students are meagre, and the restrictions of opportunities to use the library is progressively deteriorating to the students."

The building, according to Mr. Peabody's tentative plan, would be four stories in height, with a frontage of 206 feet it would give a total of 72,000 square feet, distributed on the several floors.

The memorial library would be faced with Bedford stone and harmonize with the present library in architectural style. The completed building would be two and one-half times as large as the first unit.

Discussing problems involved in planning the memorial, Mr. Peabody declared the proposed $500,000 extension would make further expansion of

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS! HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing, no more headache, dizziness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

the historical library impossible; that it would soon be inadequate, and that it commits the matter of library accommodation to a fixed quantity.

"A building capable of large expansion will be eminently desirable," he added. "When completed it will be one of the foremost buildings of the lower campus."

"In any event, and no matter what transpires, the ground at the corner of State and Park-sts. should be dedicated so far as is practicable to il-

IT NEVER PAYS

Governments, like men, must pay the penalty for riotous, immoral or unlawful living. The people of Wisconsin are to feel the effects of their support of Blaineism, inasmuch as millions of dollars collected in this state under its system of taxation of its banks must be returned to the banks as a result of a unanimous decision by the nine judges of the supreme court of the United States. The Wisconsin system of taxation was held illegal. Long before the decision was announced it was known to be an extremely immoral piece of legislation in its manifest unfairness.

The theory of the Wisconsin law was to tax banks at a higher rate than any other corporation and solely because through their good management they were prosperous and the money could be had. While other corporations in the state were being taxed a good round sum in the way of income taxes based upon their profits, the politicians of Wisconsin were not content with banks paying the same. They evolved an ad valorem system of taxation that doubled and trebled bank taxes in comparison to other corporations.

Indeed the system was so clearly unfair and wrongful that the legislature of Wisconsin, two years ago, passed an act to rectify its injustice. But Mr. Blaine vetoed the bill. The veto was good campaign stuff and Mr. Blaine is in the senate. Meanwhile, the people of Wisconsin are holding the bag and must pay back to the banks the millions improperly collected. Taxes will be high next year because the bill must be paid.

The whole experience is an example of the results of insane radicalism and superprogress. To the banks it is a blessing in disguise, but to bank customers and taxpayers it is a hardship. As soon as legislation of this character is passed by the state the banks, in order to meet the increased tax, must, and do, either raise their interest rates to the people or lower the interest rates they pay on deposits. It is always the ultimate consumer who suffers. The laborer, the farmer, the businessman or whoever borrowed money paid the bill. Now the banks find that they are entitled to a large return and their stockholders benefit. A careful estimate locally indicates that the amount to be returned in this city alone will be about $75,000.

To blunder is not a crime, but to keep on blundering in the same way indicates a lack of mentality. The people of Wisconsin have blundered and blundered grievously. Their error was that they could not see through the thin sham of politicians who fed them on chaff in the form of painted oats. The lesson is that a government has no more right merely because of its strength and power, to be unfair or unjust, than has an individual. The law was aimed to hurt banks and help Mr. Blaine. It didn't hurt the banks because they get their money back. It helped Mr. Blaine. He's in the senate now. And the people who supported him foot the bills.

THE BROWNING DECISION

"Peaches" Browning loses her case against Edward W., or rather Edward W. wins against Peaches. In a decision which fills nine pages, evidently a concession to the "prominence" if not the wealth of the plaintiff, the supreme court justice who heard the case grants Browning a separation without the payment of alimony. Peaches is left out in the cold, along with the mother who seems to have instigated the match in order to get a slice of Browning's reputed millions.

Even the movies appear to have turned a deaf ear to Peaches' charms. If the judge could have seen this case, with its amusing and nauseating details, as the public saw it, he would have saved foolscap paper by writing the decision in nine lines instead of nine pages. Mr. Browning may have deserved to win the case, but he had scarcely more sympathy from the public than his infantile mate. He evidently stands in need of a guardian in affairs of the heart. It is one of those cases in which the equities are hard to determine for there do not seem to be any on either side.

Perhaps a decision that would have pleased the public most would have been a judgment that Browning pay a half million or so to charity. A law permitting such a verdict might operate with a restraining hand on our evanescent Lotharios with more money than brains, and slushy adventurers who gain altogether too much first page notoriety.

WHITE RULE IN SHANGHAI

Adjudging the rights and wrongs of the present situation in China is a difficult job.

It is made even more difficult by the fact that it is hard for us in America to get accurate, unbiased information about the situation there.

In consequence, there are a number of rather hazy impressions abroad which may need a little correcting.

Most of us, no doubt, feel that Shanghai, the "international city," is a sort of outpost or haven of enlightened civilization and modern culture in the midst of a sea of ignorant semi-barbarians.

It is pretty generally felt that to turn Shanghai over to Chinese rule would be to see many social and cultural standards brought down to the coolie level. Shanghai under white rule is pictured as a humane, civilized city where the poverty and oppression of other Chinese cities are non-existent.

It may all be so. But here is a little evidence to the contrary.

Not long ago the Shanghai municipal council appointed a commission to study child labor conditions in this European-ruled city. This commission's report discloses appalling conditions.

The selling of young girl children into slavery, it states, is common.

Thousands upon thousands of children work in factories. Many of the children are no more than six years old; the 12-hour day is the rule. Contractors bring children in from the country districts, paying the parents $2 a month for each child. The contractors make a profit of about $4 a month per child, and the youngsters are miserably housed and fed, paid not at all and are kept like regular slaves.

In the silk mills are the worst abuses. The report cites only two mills where relatively humane working conditions prevail; and one of these is under native Chinese management and the other under Japanese management! The worst conditions were found in the British-owned and operated mills.

The report cites a long list of abuses. It closes by declaring that the council has found it difficult to draw up regulations to protect the children because the mills are on a highly competitive footing and cannot afford to have their profits shaved.

This little report is worth remembering. We had been led to believe that only in native-ruled China were such atrocious conditions prevalent. This proves otherwise.

It indicates, possibly, that the white rule in Chinese cities is not quite as beneficial for all concerned as we have been told.

IS EVERYBODY MISERABLE?

Harry K. Thaw has thought out a project which would make all people happy, according to a dispatch. Maybe it's a Maxim silencer for an alarm clock. People are happiest when asleep, says a noted thinker, which gives rise to the question observation that there is lots of misery in the world these nights. . . . Maybe Thaw has figured out a way to abolish the United States Senate. . . . Could it be possible that he has discovered a plan to clean up the chess shuffling game? . . . But he says it will take $2,500,000 to put his project into action and he is waiting for someone to put up the money. . . . Why doesn't he ask Harry Lauder for it?

A Baltimore man says his wife spent $50,000 in trying to reduce. She certainly succeeded as far as the bankroll was concerned.

And all the wind in the Senate (which you'll have to admit, is no inconsiderable zephyr) couldn't sway either Reed.

Burglars in New York got $100,000 worth of aspirin. This may be part of a campaign against the night clubs.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

My son is just 17, writes Mrs. Somebody, in the old familiar role of the anxious mother, and he has started to talk to girls and go out with the girls. As boys will at that age, I feel that it is time he was informed about things more respectable for him and I believe he would have more respect for information given in a book or pamphlet than for any instruction I can offer him. And so on, as anxious mother always does.

Now, curiously enough I do not agree with Mrs. Somebody at all. Of course I have no son of that age or any other age, damn it, but I have spent a large share of my time watching and envying less deserving folk who have "run in droves," and I believe the average boy has much more respect for sex instruction which comes straight from his father than he has for anything we can tell him in print. It doesn't matter so much if the old man's instruction is a little wabbly in spots or not quite as smoothly finished as the stuff in a book. The important thing is that the boy at that age, if he has not been misled by bad companions or older associates, thinks fairly well of his dad and has confidence that the old boy won't hand him any hokum. The father of a boy of 17 ought to be able to hold up his end in a brisk argument with the gloves, but even if the boy can put it all over him, there is still the kind of understanding between them that simply leaves books and pamphlets out of the picture. I am well aware that this atmosphere is lacking in too many cases, but I know how finely it works out where it prevails.

If Mrs. Somebody will send the boy's name and address on a stamped envelope I'll mail him the sex instruction I think a boy of 15 should have. It is a little late to enlighten the boy, but better late than never, and let us hope the light comes not too late in this boy's case.

Meanwhile I have only this to say to the youth of 17. Watch your step and don't let the wise guys tell you anything you wouldn't care to discuss over the breakfast table.

Here is where the deadly, damning effect of the cowardly conspiracy of silence comes in. The boy has been kept "innocent" for 12, 14, 16 years, perhaps. Then he suddenly begins to show new interests. Parents recognize clearly enough that the time has come for them to do their duty by the boy. But alas, they don't know how to proceed. They procrastinate. They hope and pray, but they duck and dodge and evade a sacred duty. It is a sad awakening from a sweet dream. Sometimes it is a tragic end of bliss. And the heart breaking thing about it is the conviction that a square deal in education, the right instruction at school from the very beginning, would wipe out this horrible stain and place the youth beyond the ruinous reach of the vicious instruction which is sure to come to him outside of the home under the conspiracy of silence. When a boy hears something away from home that he doesn't feel quite free to talk over with his father, the chances are it is false. When anybody outside of the home presumes to lay an artificial relation to sex life or reproduction, and make a great secret of it, the chances are the instruction is vicious. If we have honest, wholesome information or advice to give about such matters we simply offer it with no more concern about secrecy than we have about any other matters of physiology, health or hygiene.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Round Shoulders

My son, aged 9, is very round shouldered. He is rather tall and stoops or slumps a little. We asked our family physician and he recommended Prof. . . . brace. The brace is constantly slipping out of place and is a great nuisance. We are at a loss what to do, as we want him to grow up straight and strong. (S. S. H.)

Answer—A rule it is unwise to apply artificial supporters of any kind, if there is no reason to consider the condition not amenable to correction. The boy with round shoulders, or the young girl with round shoulders, should have proper physical training, under a physical director such as the gym teacher in school or the director at the Y. Perhaps in this instance there is some underlying cause which the family doctor knows is not amenable to physical development. In such a case artificial support must be used. I am unable to advise you what kind of brace would be satisfactory. The doctor should attend to that.

LOST IN THE JUNGLE

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

A BLOW AT SPEED TRAPS

Washington, D. C. — It was a liquor case in which the Supreme Court of the United States has just enunciated the principle that a trial before a judge, justice of the peace, mayor or other judicial or quasi-judicial official who gets a part of the fine imposed in case of conviction is not a fair trial in the constitutional meaning of that term. The idea, back of that decision is that such judicial officers are hopelessly biased — biased by their desire or need of augmenting their personal incomes by finding defendants guilty and assessing fines — and that, hence, they can not consider the evidence impartially. They are eager to find their hapless victims guilty.

But while this decision might seem to be primarily of interest to bootleggers, by reason of the case in question, it is being hailed as of very great importance to a much larger element of the public — the twenty-million drivers of automobiles in the United States, almost any one of whom at one time or another may run foul of one of the speed traps that are the abomination of motorists.

The American Automobile Association says that "the decision is the most effective blow ever dealt at the fee system of arrests on the highways of America, and Thomas P. Henry, president of the Association, adds as his personal comment, "We may well hail the Supreme Court decision as establishing one of the basic planks in the Magna Carta of motoring liberty."

The case upon which the nation's highest tribunal passed was brought from Ohio, but it is stated that the decision will invalidate the minor court systems of Arkansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, North Carolina, Georgia, and Texas as well, and possibly Maryland, Virginia, and a number of other States. Legal authorities say that probably several other cases will have to be taken to the Supreme Court before it has been determined just how far reaching is the principle which the Court has laid down.

AN EVIL FOUGHT FOR YEARS

The American Automobile Association, which is a non-profit-making organization devoted to the interests of motorists, has been fighting the speed trap evil for years. It has gathered information as to where such traps have been set up, and the road maps which it supplies free to its members and for a nominal fee to non-members are always marked so that the

A BIG WEEK-END BUSINESS

As a rule these "courts" or traps

do their big business on week-ends, catching motorists who are out for Saturday-Sunday trips, and who will pay relatively small sums immediately rather than have their holiday outings interrupted and spoiled. In these traps the arresting officers are always on the lookout for cars that bear the license tags of another State, and more particularly for the cars of a type that indicate a certain degree of affluence on the part of their owners or passengers. Local cars can pass unmolested through these traps at 40, 50, or 60 miles an hour, and drivers often get by doing the best they can, but let a foreign-tagged car, and especially one of an expensive make, try to get through at 20 to 25 miles an hour and it will be stopped, and the fine will probably be assessed by a "court" that is sitting on a log by the roadside.

The other kind of speed trap is that set up for winter might be termed the general welfare of the community. The fines and costs go into the village or town treasury and the officials do not share in them directly. The proceeds may be devoted legitimately enough to community purposes, but that makes possible the lowering of local taxes, hence the officials do benefit, indirectly. The officials are extremely zealous in enforcing the "law" because they and their community will profit thereby, and it is contended that they are just as biased as if they were pocketing directly the bulk of the fines and fees. A case involving this practice will be one of the next to be taken to the Supreme Court, it is promised.

Another way of fighting speed traps, aside from carrying a case to higher judicial tribunals, is to boycott the communities where they are established. Business men in all villages and towns derive no inconsiderable part of their revenues from motorists, and when motorists have been warned to avoid passing through such places, and do so, it speedily develops that the local interests will see that the speed trap is abolished.

This plan worked out very effectively in the case of a Maryland village where a justice of the peace and his associates were building up a fine week-end business for themselves. The three A's declared a boycott on the place and issued warnings to the general motoring public as well, and in no time at all the local business men put the skids under that particular justice of the peace and his cohorts.

In one Ohio case, reported by A. J. Montgomery in a broadside in the American Motorist some time ago, a "Squire" conducting a roadside court collected $2500 from motorists in forty days, of which his share was $1804 and his three constables got $1096, while the county got only $806.

COLLEGE SUICIDES

Editor Post-Crescent: Your editorial of March 19, 1927, dealing with the suicide of the son of Louis Untermeyer, poet, brings out very true and interesting details. However, will the conditions you mention, ever be changed, as long as human beings are what they are? We certainly would be living in a millennium, could we do away with hypocrisy, untruthfulness, graft, make-believe, etc. But were times different from the present, at any other previous time no matter how far back into the world's history we may delve? To my mind these conditions however, deplorable are a proof stone on which the character, usefulness and grain of youth are tested and found—either to be true or wanting.

I happen to remember that I've read something about the Untermeyer domestic troubles between father and son. It was about the question, "Shall college students be allowed to own cars?" In a letter Mr. Untermeyer gave his opinion relating his own experience. At first the youth was allowed to use the family car whenever he wanted it. But soon the father found this badly reflected upon the son's class work. He was reported absent from whole class periods, then half days, then whole days; his grades became impossible. At the same time, the mother, with women's intuition, noticed an alarming slack in the boy's moral character. When reprimanded and counter promises failed, the car was locked up and the key went into father's pocket. Then a nerve racking time started for the poor parents. The boy went in to complain, beg, whine or he would sulk for days. He would deliberately stay away from classes; would deliberately neglect class work. Nothing was too mean for him to torment the parents with. I'm sure there is little to worry about the recent epidemic of suicides among college students. A recent work has attempted to analyze the cause but have failed because there is no cause. One big law of human life is at the bottom of it. Unfit and useless people will not survive. Students who kill themselves are merely taking time by the forelock and shuffling off their mortal coil before the natural process of depreciation get a full chance. The college suicide, in many cases, is dissatisfied with himself and wants the world to know it.

The Question Box

Q. How does the carrying capacity of all passenger automobiles compare with that of railway coaches? N. J. H.

A. Passenger coaches on railways have a total carrying capacity of about 2,600,000, while automobiles of today would accommodate almost 30 times that number.

Q. Is the Suez Canal affected by tide? S. M.C.C.

A. There is practically no tide at the Mediterranean end of the canal but toward the Suez end there is a rise of 3.25-5.91 feet.

Q. Where was the first school garden in the United States? N. H. T.

A. In America, the school gardens movement had its beginning in the city of Boston in 1881, when Henry L. Clapp, principal of the George Haven Putnam School established a wild-flower garden at his school.

Q. What other city in the United States has a place called Capitol Hill, besides Washington, D. C.? M. C. C.

A. Seattle, Washington, has a prominent hill that has been given this name.

Q. What are bank holidays? N. J. H.

A. Days on which banks in England and Ireland are legally closed are thus known. They are Easter Monday, Whit-Monday, the first Monday in August, Good Friday, Christmas Day and December 26.

Q. How many islands constitute the Bahamas? A. J.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

TIGER OF THE INSECT WORLD

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

No, it is not an idol worshipper or a revival of the whirling dervishes, but a little insect found in many parts of our country and in various other parts of the world. More legends and superstitions are attached to the praying mantis than to any other insect, and all have to do with the devotional attitude which he assumes.

To the uninitiated he rather resembles a grasshopper, but his front pair of limbs are very peculiarly modified. Resting on his four posterior limbs, with head up and fore-limbs outstretched, the mantis sits waiting for his prey, looking for all the world as though he were wrapped up in prayer. Despite this appearance the mantis is not the saint but the tiger of the insect world, ferociously destroying flies, caterpillars, and grasshoppers. After he has captured his victim, he does not kill it before eating, but rather holds the agonized captive between those terrible forearms and nonchalantly feasts upon the least vital portions.

The female mantis turns on the male at times and devours him, or else having appeased her appetite, leaves him in a half-eaten condition. The female mantis lays her egg clusters in midautumn, and in the spring thousands of young make their bow to the joyous farmer, who realizes that they will help rid his garden of harmful insects.

The Chinese make use of the pugnacious qualities of the mantis, and stage combats between them, just as dog and cock fights are held in other countries.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folson's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNARD, and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folson, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSON, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pick-up an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives, and takes over Folson's rooms.

MYRTLE, a chambermaid, and TUBBY, a bellhop, sneak into the rooms and Myrtle is enticed by the strange French dolls that had been Folson's. Pelton later accuses Myrtle of opening his luggage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXV
"No, Sir," and Myrtle's eyes, raised to Pelton's face, fairly shone with truth. "No, sir, I didn't touch your luggage or your things at all. I did pick up the dolls and pet them, but, honestly, I didn't touch another single thing."

Myrtle was telling the truth, of course, and it rang in her voice, and Dan Pelton believed her.

"If there's one thing I can do," he said, "I can always tell when people speak truthfully. And I know you did. So, that's that."

"How queer. Can you always tell?" Mr. Pelton asked.

"Yes. Nobody can lie to me, and get away with it."

"And—and did you say—something about—" her courage gave out and she looked at the dolls in mute appeal.

"Did I say I'd give you a doll?" he laughed. "Well, I half said so, didn't I? Which one do you like best?"

"This one," and Myrtle pointed to the dark-eyed one, the one with the lure of a siren in her sweet, haunting face. "That's the one Mr. Folson liked the best."

"Oh, he did, did he? Then, take! I'm glad to be rid of it. Take it, girl, and now, clear out. Don't look so hesitant. I've a right to give away the doll. They're all mine now. Take that one, and go."

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir, very much."

And clasping her precious gift to her heart, Myrtle hurried away, almost afraid the donor might regret his act and ask the doll back again.

As ill luck would have it, she met Miss Folson just coming toward her nephew's rooms.

"Here, you," the lady said, sternly.

thought it must be the most valuable. Meantime, the astute Tubby, who had long ago learned to distinguish between the sides of buttered bread, was out on the hotel dock hanging around the chair that contained the portly person of Titus Riggs.

Privileged in many ways, Tubby allowed free access to the deck, but he was not supposed to speak to the guests unless on an errand.

At last Riggs noticed the uneasy little chap, and called him to his side.

"What's it all about, sonny? What do you want to say to me?"

"How do you know?" and Tubby gaped his admiration.

"Oh, well, when a boy looks as if he'd just naturally bust if he didn't get something off his chest, I assume that it's a weighty matter. And when the said boy looks at me furtively now and then, yet with the expression of a dying fish, why, then I just call him over and demand the truth."

"Well, you see, Mr. Riggs, I know something."

"You do! Really?"

"Now, don't kid me. I mean about this here murder business."

"That's no matter for jesting, son."

"Well, then, what is it that you know? And why haven't you told before?"

"Well, I didn't know it before. And I dunno as I know it now. It's just a—"

"A suspicion?"

"Not even that. More like a—"

"A surmise? An indication?"

"No, no. I mean more a hint a clue, a—"

"Ah, a way to look! That's fine Tubby. Now, careful, tell me about it."

They were in a corner by themselves, and with lowered voices ran small chance of being overheard.

"Yes, but, Mr. Riggs, if—if it is any good—if it does help you—"

"Will you be paid? Yes, Tubby, you will. But only if it's good evidence or a real clue. Or a true way to look."

"Yes, sir. But if it is all those things, will you—"

"Yes," a little impatiently. "Yes, I'll see to it that you get paid. My Lord, Tubby, what a school for young grafters a big hotel is! Well, go ahead."

"It's only this. You've been all through Mr. Folson's papers and letters, ain't you?"

"Pretty much. There's some of that work still to be done. Why?"

"Oh, only that Mr. Pelton has a big suitcase full of papers and letters and important looking documents—"

"And you think they're connected with Mr. Folson's estate?"

"They're lots of 'em addressed to Mr. Folson, and some of 'em in Mr. Folson's writing."

"This is interesting. Where is this suitcase?"

"Up in Mr. Pelton's rooms. The rooms Mr. Folson used to park in."

"How did you come to spy them out?"

Tubby looked duly and properly instructed.

"Nethin' like that, sir. I saw them when I took up some ice water."

"Oh, I see. I beg your pardon. Very careless of Mr. Pelton to have them in sight when you came in. Well, never mind, you did right to mention it. Tubs, and if anything comes of it, I'll remember you."

"Yes, sir; thank you sir." And the bellhop went off and left Riggs to his cogitations.

It was a pleasant place to muse. The comfortable chair was placed just at a point where Riggs could command the boardwalk or could let his gaze go farther afield, and view the wide expanse of blue ocean.

But with a little sigh of regret, he rose from the big wicker rocker, and betook himself up to Dan Pelton's rooms, having first acquired information by telephone that he was there and alone.

"I thought at first, I'd go for a confab with your aunt," Riggs said as he took the seat and the cigar that was offered. "But I felt that these first hours after the services for her brother, she ought to be left in peace."

"I see you don't know Aunt Stasia," Pelton responded, with a little smile. "She could go to the funerals of all her relatives and still be fit for any sort of interview with anybody. Shall I call her, or shall we go to see her?"

"Presently. Perhaps we might have a little chat by ourselves first. You're with us, Pelton? I mean with your aunt and me in this search for her brother's murderer?"

"Of course, Riggs—sure I'm with you, in that I want you to find him if you can. But I'm not so keen to have him found as Aunt Anastasia is."

"Why not?"

"Or a very simple reason. Because I fear if the motive for Uncle Garrett's death, or the identity of his murderer should be discovered, it—well, it might react unpleasantly on the—er—the family dignity, if not—"

Dan Pelton suspects his uncle, Garrett Folson, having been a black-mailer. Read the next chapter.

FIRST TRYOUTS IN ORATORICAL MEET HELD THIS WEEK

Five Contestants Will Be Selected for Final Competition in Contest

First preliminary tryouts for the William Heiss Memorial oratorical contest at Appleton high school were held at the school Monday evening under the supervision of Warren Wright, forensic coach. Nearly 20 boys had entered the contest race Tuesday evening, and eight or ten of these will be selected to appear in the final tryouts Thursday evening.

The Heiss contest will be held April 22 at the high school, and the winner will represent Appleton at the Fox River Valley district forensic contest in Green Bay on April 29.

Five contestants will then be chosen by Mr. Wright and Miss Ruth McKennan of the public speaking department.

Edward Blessman, a freshman at Lawrence college who has received his appointment to West Point Military academy, won the Heiss contest in 1926. Herman Brockhaus was the winner the two preceding years. He now is a student at Northwestern college, Naperville, Ill. He was reader on the college speech club last year and this season won second place in the state inter-collegiate oratorical contest.

Prof. A. L. Franke of the public speaking department, Lawrence college, has assisted Mr. Wright in preparing a list of prize winning orations in schools and colleges throughout the country. These will be given to the successful candidates for selection of their speeches.

The Heiss contest will be held April 22 at the high school, and the winner will represent Appleton at the Fox River Valley district forensic contest in Green Bay on April 29.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain. All Drug-gists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat when you like. 15c, 30c, 60c. adv.

Freckles

MAJOR HOOPLE, Salesman Sam, Freckles, and the Out Our Way characters have come to Appleton to stay. Announcement has been made by NEA Service, the newspaper feature organization which supplies these comics, that its artists have been signed on new long term contracts.

This arrangement means that next week, next year and for many years to follow, you will meet every day in this paper, all these cartoon friends with whom you now are well acquainted.

DEPENDABILITY is the keynote of comic feature success—permanence of appeal, of character, and of the feature itself. The Post-Crescent's comics are, in every way, solidly established.

VARIETY in comics is the balanced ration that satisfies newspaper consumers. The Post-Crescent believes that its list of NEA comics is ideally chosen, both in diversity of subjects and in range of appeal. Old folks, kindergartners, all ages find entertainment there. Human interest, romance, subtle humor and slapstick, adventure and mystery—these are designed to find their place in every segment of the family circle.

IN some of these comics there is merry laughter, in others a quiet, understanding smile. The fun, whatever form it takes, is always clean; it always passes muster before the closest scrutiny. In others there is a strong human interest appeal that appeals to many of you as much as humor.

There is no hodge-podge of giddy gags and disconnected situations in these comics. The fascinating stories that unwind through them command your day-by-day attention. Interesting new continuity is developing now.

THERE is no better talent in the newspaper world than that of the highly-paid artists of NEA Service. They are under long contracts to entertain you with their wit and skill. No other paper in Appleton can secure these services. They work exclusively for

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
Your Chiropractor of Course

Question—I have been a chronic sufferer with Intestinal Indigestion for more than two years. If I decide to take Chiropractic Adjustments, what guarantee have I that you will get me well?

Answer—Every intelligent person demands conclusive proof before he is willing to accept a new idea. Give him indisputable evidence that you are right and he is satisfied. That's why Chiropractic is being so widely accepted. The testimonials of patients right here in your own community is rather good proof. A large number of people, many of whom you know, who have been restored to health, should be very good evidence that your case is no different from many others. We mention this as the way whereby you may satisfy yourself that Chiropractic will do exactly what we claim for it. A spinal analysis is necessary before we are able to say what can be done in your particular case.

Question—What percentage of your patients are benefited thru Spinal Adjustments?

Answer—If the patients stay with the Chiropractor until he has accomplished the essential changes in the spine the results will be 90%. Of course the majority of cases that come to me after being classified as incurable by other doctors I deal with to cause of disease. Phone for your health appointment 4319.

BIRDS AND FLOWERS SCARCE ON MANHATTAN, THE MODE PROGNOSTICATES; COLORFUL CLOTHES, CHIC SUITS, ARE NEW YORK'S SPRING SIGN

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEW YORK—Since robins and wildflowers are scarce on Manhattan we have to rely upon such harbingers of spring as tailored suits, straw hats, fox-fur newfangled, and soft new colors. Thus do we now corroborate the climatic evidences that winter is passing.

At the slightest hint of encouragement and cooperation from the weather department, the New Yorker struts her stuff. In the middle of the day when the sun is most persuasive, you see the smart suit of Oxford gray, kasha, or colorful tweed, worn only with the fox scarf.

DOUBLE SCARF
And incidentally, to introduce a plaiting note right here, the spring scarf is apt to be double, that is, made of two silver foxes instead of one, as if one were not enough to wreck any normal bank account.

One's duty of course is clear. The tall woman positively owes it to herself to wear the double neckpiece, joined in the back, with a lovely pelt to distribute on each shoulder, but certainly a short woman can look terribly overdone in too much fur, particularly in the springtime.

The new coats are a positive delight, they fit the body so smoothly and closely without once suggesting tightness, just achieving that admirable sleekness which was formerly almost an exclusive product of the Parisienne. Such Chanel and Lanvin coats as I have seen have my complete approbation. Chanel has out a new tuck model that is very much like the one she launched last winter, except that the tucks seem to have moved further apart and instead of the standing collar there is a satin shawl effect that is very practical for spring.

One that particularly appealed to me was of natural colored kasha, lined with red, with a red collar and a perfectly huge red flower perched on the shoulder. The sleeves as well as the body were horizontally tucked.

CHANEL'S MOODS
Another model which shows Chanel in another mood is also charming. It has a cane collar across the back and a circular cowl in front, as well as some tricky stitching at the waistline.

MRS. GOODHUE LIVINGSTON

MRS. HOWARD RENSHAW

The material is navy blue or black wool, rather smooth like crepe, and the flower at the shoulder is of black and white velvet.

I liked the coat on Mrs. Howard Renshaw, of black wool with a stole collar of baby lamb that was tied easily to simulate a shawl closing. It is one of my theories that a spring coat should have much diversity in its neckline possibilities.

appears to be a very popular treatment. I have seen attractive black satin and silk coats with the same wide reverses and summer ermine or white ermine following the same line as this.

Turning my thoughts away from street attire to evening gowns, I must mention the very lovely white crepe frock which I saw on Miss Justine Townsend. One side was a large cluster of black coque feathers. I noticed also that her slippers were black.

MOIRE COMING UP
On Mrs. James Lennox Banks, Jr., I saw a really distinguished looking gown; it was rose colored moire, trimmed with bands of a lighter pink. And a large bow of many loops at the hip-line and somewhere or other was a suggestion of silver—sort of a subtle and highly pleasing sparkle. Moire comes more forcibly into fashion's foreground both for day and evening. The all black moire frock, untrimmed save possibly for a flower on the shoulder is still unusual enough to gain attention on its merits.

Household Hints

CLEAR DAY
Always do your furnishing painting on a clear day in a room not colder than 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

DROP LEAF TABLES
Many women are placing bright-hued drop-leaf tables in the kitchen which may serve as breakfast tables in the morning and work tables during the day.

BOX COUCH
In place of an expensive dayvenor or sofa, buy a box couch and cover it with a flounced chintz slip cover. Use several plain pillows and a striped one in harmonizing colors.

FRUIT SALAD
When planning a fruit salad from cans, always place the cans against the ice early in the day, so their contents will be cold when dinner time comes.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereals cooked with figs, cream, crisp wheat toast, bread crumbs, grid cakes, maple syrup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Scalloped eggs and potatoes, stewed tomatoes, raisin bread, molasses cookies, milk, tea.
DINNER—Boned shoulder of lamb stuffed and roasted, twice baked sweet potatoes, creamed celery, shredded fresh pineapple, nut macaroons, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

The white of 1 egg might be added to each person's orange juice. Since no dish particularly rich in protein is included in the breakfast menu. Slip the white almost constantly with the kitchen scissors as it drops from the shell into the glass. Add orange juice and in lieu of a shaker beat slightly with a silver fork. Serve as usual.

SCALLOP OF EGGS AND POTATOES
Five hard cooked eggs, 4 cups hot mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 cup medium thick white sauce, 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt.

Put a layer of mashed potatoes in a well-buttered baking dish. The layer should be 1 inch thick. Add a layer of eggs cut in slices, sprinkle with cheese, parsley, mustard, pepper and salt and cover with half the sauce. Add another layer of potato half as thick at the first one, remaining eggs cut in slices, cheese, seasonings and sauce. Cover with remaining potato. Make the top of the dish rough with a fork and brush over with melted butter. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 30 minutes and serve from baking dish.

BEST COLORS
Best spring colors are: brown for sports and travel, beige and gray for street wear, and pastel shades—chiefly blue—for afternoon.

RAGLAN COATS
Coats for motoring are of brown woolen fabrics, in raglan style, with striped braids for collars.

TAFFETA JUMPERS
Jumper dresses of striped taffeta are quite plain and sleeveless. They are to be worn with finely-tucked tailored white silk blouses, usually with Dutch collar.

SMALL DESIGNS
Embroideries repeat the small designs of printed silks. They are practically the only trimming used, except for the large chiffon shoulder flowers.

AUTHORESS FINDS RECREATION IN BAKING AND COOKING

"COME out of the kitchen for recreation," is the motto of most American women today. "I go into mine for relaxation and enjoyment," says Ruth Cross, authoress, whose latest book, "The Unknown Goddess," was so well received.

Miss Cross is known to the world for her writing. But to her intimate friends and neighbors she is famous for her cooking. Her recipe for perfect rest, after a hard day at her desk, is to don a becoming apron, go into her colorful kitchen and mix a cake, put up some perfect fruit or plank a steak to perfection.

ALL HOME-MAKERS
"Women are authors, artists, actresses, politicians and so on nowadays," says Miss Cross. "But they cannot get away from the fact that they all have a bit of the home-maker in them. Success in some branch of this art is bound to give them satisfaction."

Last fall, her friends insisted that Miss Cross enter her specialties in the Riverton, Conn., fair. She did. And walked away with more prizes than any other competitor.

CARAMEL PIE
Her caramel pie, proclaimed by her friends as the most delicious of all, was a first prize winner. Here's the recipe:

Caramelize one cup sugar, stir in one cup milk, beaten yolks of three eggs, one tablespoon flour. As it cooks, stir until smooth. Flavor with vanilla. Bake the crust and pour in mixture, returning to oven until it sets. Beat whites of eggs to stiff froth, add gradually three tablespoons sugar, beating all the while, spread over top of pie and return to oven to brown.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

When Bob Hathaway came later that afternoon, his arms filled with paper bags of delicatessen foods and fruits, and a tissue-wrapped cluster of purple and gold pansies for Jay, Faith met him at the door with a finger at her lips and fear in her great brown eyes.

"I'm terribly frightened about Jay," she whispered. "I think she's asleep now, but be very quiet, darling. Her temperature is over a hundred and three, and she cries if I leave the room for a minute."

"I'll fix supper myself," Bob told her after he had stooped to kiss her over the banister.

As Faith left the room, she raised her brows significantly to Bob, who followed her into the hall.

"Did you find old Phil?" she asked, in a careful whisper, her eyes fearfully on the closed door of the room where Jay lay sick.

Bob shook his head. "I went to the address he'd given on his peddler's license and the old couple there—named Peterson—had never heard of him, or so they said. Claim they've been living at that address for five years. And since it's only a two-room shack, it's pretty certain old Phil didn't live there as a boarder. But I've not given up hope yet."

"Listen!" Faith commanded him in a startled whisper.

Faintly at first, then in a crescendo of fear, came Jay's shrill, childish voice, pleading: "Don't let them kill Cherry, God! Don't let them hang her or let her die, Jesus! You can take your spite out on me, God! Please God! I'll die, so you won't be mad at us no more! O-oh!"

"What was old Phil is she doing?" Faith cried, as she ran to the closed door beyond which a child was trying to make a bargain with a wrathful and jealous God.

Bob followed her into the room, dropping his bundles to the floor as he ran. Jay, in her faded pink cotton flannel nightgown, was kneeling on the floor beside her bed, her little bare feet startlingly white against the dark painted floor, her small hands clasped and raised heavenward, tears slipping from her closed eyes down thin cheeks painted poppy-red with fever.

"Oh, darling!" Faith moaned, as she stooped to gather the body of the delirious child in her arms. "Didn't Faith tell you not to get out of bed? You're sick, honey! You'll make yourself worse. There, now! Faith's here, precious. She won't leave you again. I'll lie down beside you and hold you tight in my arms."

But Jay writhed out of the clasp of those comforting arms, staring at Bob with horror-haunted, pale gray eyes. "I want to die," she gasped, her breath coming raspingly from her congested lungs. "God's mad at us. Cora Parsons said so. He'd mad and He's going to let 'em kill Cherry to get even with us. I been praying all night for him to let Cherry out of jail. And it was cold on the bare floor—" She began to sob then, relaxing in Faith's arms.

"That's why she's so much worse," Faith groaned. "And the doctor told me to watch her so carefully. Oh, Bob! I'm no good for anything! I can't save Cherry or keep Jay from making herself sick—oh, Bob!"

"You're becoming hysterical, yourself, dear," Bob warned her, as he knelt beside the bed. "You couldn't possibly stay awake all night to watch her, so carefully. Oh, Bob! I'm no good for anything! I can't save Cherry or keep Jay from making herself sick—oh, Bob!"

SPRING SCARFS ARE IN CHECKS AND STRIPES

SCARFS designed for spring and summer wear are exploited in interesting hand blocked and painted sports pattern on crepes de chine and georgette.

Two-tone checked treatments, plaid and roman striped effects exemplify these sports patterns. The checks are imposed on light grounds in fairly large all-over formation, achieved through the air brush technique giving a speckled effect to the pattern and to the all-around hand border.

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

QUEEN ELIZABETH—1536-1603

This robust-minded queen, unlike her frailier kinswoman, Mary, Queen of Scots, apparently wrote no letters of sentiment, or if she did her discretion saw to it that they were all destroyed. But Elizabeth was the recipient of many letters of both tender and ardent affection. Sir Christopher Hatton, one of the few courtiers who dared write to her of love, came to court, an obscure gentleman. But he was handsome and his person was a graceful one, all of which did not escape the astute Queen who loved above all things to have about her not only wit but beauty as well. In fairness to this lover it must be said that he had a strong and subtle capacity despite the bitter aspersion of a rival that "Hatton danced himself into favor, and that that was the end of his talents."

Sir Christopher Hatton to Queen Elizabeth

June, 1573.
If I could express my feelings of your gracious letters, I should utter into your matter of strange effect. In reading of them, with my tears I blot them; in thinking of them I feel so great comfort that I find cause, as God knoweth, to thank you on my knees. Death had been much more to my advantage than to wit health and life by so loathsome a pilgrimage. The time of two days hath drawn me further from you than ten, when I return, can lead me towards you. Madam, I find the greatest lack that ever poor wretch sustained. No death, no not hell, no fear of death, shall ever win of me my consent so far to wrong myself again as to be absent from you one day. God granted my return. I will perform this vow. I lack that I live by. The more I find this lack, the further I go from you. Shame whippeth me forward. Shame take them than counselled me to it. The life (as you well remember) is too long that loathsome lasteth. A true saying, Madam; believe him that hath proved it. The great wisdom I find in your letters with your country counsels are very notable; but the last word is worth the Bible. Truth, truth, truth! Ever may I dwell with you. I will ever deserve it. My spirit and soul, I feel, agree with my body and life, that to serve you is a heaven, but to lack you is more than a hell's torment unto them. My heart is full of woe. Pardon, for God's sake, my tedious writing. It doth much diminish (for the time) my great griefs. I will wash away the faults of these letters with the drops from your poor "lids" and so enclose them. Would God I were with you but for one hour! My wits are overwrought with thoughts. I find myself amazed. Bear with me, my most sweet dear lady. Passion overcometh me; I can write no more. Love me, for I love you. God, I beseech thee witness the same in love for the poor servant. Live forever! Shall I utter this familiar term (farwell?) yea, ten thousand farwells. He speaketh it that most dearly loveth you. I hold you too long. Once again I crave pardon, and so bid your own poor "lids" farewell.

Your bondsman everlastingly tied.

WHO ARE YOU IN NEW YORK?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE display of wealth in New York amazed and perplexed a "average citizen on his first trip there to the extent that he hunted up an editor friend and told his troubles. "Look here, Alex," he said, "how do these people get that way? Here I am, as smart as most mortals and with a little smatter, I've made bricks with out stony and now I have ten thousand dollars in the bank and an income of five thousand dollars a year. At home I'm considered a success. But here I'm a piker, a down and outer—not even a has-been. I'm a never-was."

The editor friend gave him an encouraging slap. "You've got New Yorking old fellow. Glee up! I've got a nice little speech all ready. I have had to give it to so many dis-couraged chaps like you that I'm thinking of printing a brochure and making it around to my friends."

"It is true that New York is New York. It thinks in heavy terms, deals in big business and lives accordingly."

"But suppose you bring your capital to New York. As you say, you are smart. You may, and likely will, lose every cent you've got. On the other hand, you may invest it in something good and find yourself making quick money."

"Then where are you?"

"You may be able to live on Park Avenue and pay fifteen thousand dollars a year rent. You may be able to run a five-thousand-dollar car chauffeur and all. You may be able to buy what are pearls and diamonds. But what are you? Except for a few friends and a very few, you'll have no more identity than a gum drop in a candy store. You'll lose human contacts and real living to a great degree. The elevator boy in a big apartment house is probably having more real life than the man he is opening doors for. Ask almost any one of the men you envy—say over fifty—about his life here and seven times out of ten he'll begin to talk about the old home town and the people he used to know—yes, the little red school house, too.

"No, I don't suppose they'd go back. Life does that to us. We choose a path and we must follow. But lose that feeling of fulfillment! It's the most foolish thing in the world and the most wrong. You're a great deal more important as you are where you are than if you were a multi-millionaire here. Chances are you're about as good as dead."

Wasn't he right! Now that the world has discovered how the other half lives, don't we all have that feeling of fulfillment at times when we come to our lot with others? And isn't it wrong? I'm a great believer in compensations of environment.

Queen Mary Has Only One Honor Maid

London—The only maid of honor required by Queen Mary is the Honorable Ursula Lawley, daughter of Lord and Lady Lawley, and when she retires the title will be dropped altogether. This is in accordance with the King's post-war program of household economy.

Queen Victoria had eight to ten maids bearing this title while Queen Mary herself formerly had five to six maids of honor.

NO VOTER
Paris—"Why vote?" asks Mme. Alfred Vallette, known in France as Radcliffe, novelist and literary critic, who disapproves her countrywomen's efforts to gain suffrage.

"If women vote in France, the same ones will always go to the polls and conditions will not be changed."

Radcliffe is the woman who set 50 years as the ideal age for women because as she explained, "then gentlemen begin to leave us in peace." Another Radcliffe saying is, "the stouter women are, the more gentlemen are satisfied."

COLOR COMBINATIONS

The striped compositions are noteworthy for the interesting color combinations. The roman striped version having particular appeal on a geometric ground, as illustrated in one version having a bright green ground, with orchid, rose and yellow stripes. Crepe de chine squares also are striped in brilliant colors around the borders, or are treated with all-over plaid designs having a large rose imposed in the center.

FLORAL PATTERNS

An outstanding pattern and one subscribing to a combination of bright shades shows two large begonias in purple and rose imposed on the border, with roman stripes extending halfway up one side, finished with a large leaf motif.

A large assortment of machine embroidered shawls, finished with heavy hand knotted silk fringe are being introduced on heavy crepe de chine grounds in pastel shades embroidered in self and contrasting color soft tones, subscribing to various floral themes.

Relieving Women's Hygiene

Of its worries—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. RUCKLAND

New York, N.Y.

BECAUSE old hygienic ways are on the wane, women active in business and society have few hygienic worries these days. Hazardous old ways are being supplanted by a new way called Kotex.

✓ You discard Kotex just like a sheet of tissue. No laundry, no embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, one now wears sheerest frocks and gowns without the slightest fear of embarrassment.

Also deodorizes thoroughly, thus ending all danger of offending.

Doctors and nurses widely urge Kotex. Women everywhere employ it.

You can obtain it at any store simply by saying "KOTEX." Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

MAY CLOSE MUSKRAT SEASON TWO YEARS

Committee to Sponsor Bill Aimed to Unify Game Laws in State

Madison—(AP)—The assembly fish game committee will sponsor a bill aimed to unify the game laws relating to muskrats. Members of the committee announced that to accomplish this purpose they would ask for complete closing of the season on the animal in Wisconsin for either one or two years.

The bill they propose would then open the season in all counties of the state from March 1 to April 15.

"The present law is a hodge-podge," Assemblyman Ronck, speaking for the committee members said. The law is so various as applied to the different counties that it permits innumerable violations. Trappers and hunters can take the muskrat in one county out of season and claim, when caught, that they trapped them in a neighboring county where the open season prevails. If we can get the dates of the open season uniform, this will be remedied.

"The one or two year closed season would allow the muskrats to increase and thus assist in the conservation of our fish. The muskrat houses on Wisconsin lakes cause ice to buckle especially during the more severe winter months. When the lakes are completely frozen over the fish suffer and under present conditions muskrats are being so reduced that we find few of their houses."

"The bill would thereby accomplish a three-fold purpose; allowing an increase in the muskrat population; assisting fish life and allowing unification of the trapping law."

"The bill will be introduced, the committee members said, as soon as the reaction to the announcement of its purposes is recorded by those interested."

FOREIGN WARS ORDER MEETS HERE IN APRIL

The Wisconsin company of the Military Order of Foreign Wars will meet at plans made by John Salsman of Madison, who has been connected with national guard work in the state for many years and is now commander of the order. About 100 members are expected to attend the annual meeting in the afternoon and banquet in the evening. The 120th Field Artillery band will play after the dinner.

Officers in the United States army who have served in the foreign wars, whether with the national guard, reserve organization, regular army or any branch of the army are eligible for membership.

STAGE AND SCREEN

PARAMOUNT AGAIN SCORES WITH "LOVE'S GREATEST MISTAKE"

The movie fans will pack Fischers Appleton Theatre tonight at the performance of "Love's Greatest Mistake," Paramount's newest dramatic offering. Consensus of opinion seemed to indicate that this film version of this Liberty Magazine story is even greater than "Mannquin." The Paramount-Hurst-Paramount picture that set the whole country talking a year ago. Exciting situations pile upon a thrilling heart interest story to make "Love's Greatest Mistake," one of the most engrossing entertainments of this year's screen offerings. Frederic Arnold Kummer, the well-known author and playwright has spun here one of those absorbing tales that made him famous not only in America but in England, France, Germany, and the Scandinavian countries as well.

For this yarn that Paramount has converted into the clear-cut blacks and whites of the silver sheet is one of love and intrigue, gay life and low life, the underworld and the upstart of society. Josephine Dunn as Honey McNeil, the young girl bored with the narrowness of life in her small home town, comes to New York in search of romance and excitement. She finds both an exciting, breath-taking series of episodes ensue that culminate in her discovery of the right man. This man is Harvey Gibbs, struggling architect most ably played by James Hall, who distinguished himself with Pebe Daniels in "The campus flirt," and who is featured with Pola Negri in her current Paramount production "Hotel Imperial."

William Powell again plays the humorous villain with Evelyn Brent as the object of his immediate pursuit. His talent as a blackmailer in this picture results in much grief for Honey. But to tell the entire plot is to take the spice out of it. The time spent in seeing it is well worth anyone's while. Direction is by Edward Sutherland whose well-known flair for comedy results here in many lighter touches in key with the spirited action and his melodramatic development of the plot.

THE SEASON'S HIGH SPOT IN COMEDY DRAMA

One of the brightest, breeziest photoplays in some time is "The Speed Limit," which is scheduled for presentation at the New Bijou to-day and Thursday. This new Gotham Production is a comedy-drama of love and gasoline and the principal scenes are connected with a great automobile race.

The title, "The Speed Limit," might imply to the rapid action of the story which starts into action with the first

Boatowners Look Forward To Season Of Activity

With an early spring in prospect, motor boats of the Fox river valley are looking forward to a season of unusual activity. It is reported by local boatowners. Bright sunshine and warm breezes of the last few weeks has stirred the hearts of more than one Appleton "skipper," and many have been looking over their craft to determine what repairs, if any, their boats may need.

The city's two boat clubs are in a flourishing condition and members are enthusiastic, according to officials of the organizations. Waters in this vicinity are a paradise for yachting, it is pointed out. Lake Winnebago, Green Bay, and the Koshong and Wolf rivers offer splendid variety for cruises, day trips or just short rides, and boatmen already are planning cruises for next summer.

A number of new yachts and motor boats have been added to the Neenah and Menasha fleets, some of them quite elaborate structures, and more will be bought before the summer is far gone, it is said. Neither Appleton club has any new boats, but both organizations boast of a representative fleet of all styles and models from 50 footers to small outboard craft.

"Although this sport received a practical knockout from the automobile, the latter is now an utility while the boat still maintains its place in sport and recreation," said Judge Fred Heinemann, of Appleton's most enthusiastic boatmen, recently. "All local boats will be in commission again this year, and an active season is anticipated."

Several owners have been approached with offers to sell their craft to Chicago sportsmen, it is learned. Belmont harbor in Chicago has an anchorage for the 300 motor and sail boats of all classes and signs which are inhabited from early spring to late fall by their owners. The population of this fleet is estimated at approximately 2,000, and the attractiveness of this mode of summer life is causing many Chicagoans to search these waters for more boats.

The Fox River Boat company, Menasha, is building a stocky 40 footer for A. C. Gundlach, Chicago, to be added to this fleet. More orders with the same boat works are in prospect. There is an active market for bottoms for the first time in many years. The two clubs here are the Appleton Motor Boat club and the Appleton Power Boat club. The clubhouse of the former organization is located at the base of the hill on the south side of Pierce park. Its officers are: President, Leo Schroeder; secretary and treasurer, Henry Euss. The other clubhouse is situated at the foot of E. Eldorado-st. Officers of the Appleton Power Boat club are Harry Laabs, president; Clarence Nichols, secretary; M. S. Heckins, treasurer.

Together they have between 30 and 40 boats.

CINCY MAY TRADE WALLY PIPP TO BROOKLYN DODGERS

Robbies Angling For Experienced Infielder, Reds Need Good Hurler

Grover Alexander Pitches 14th Straight Scoreless Exhibition Inning

There is talk in the Brooklyn Dodgers' clubhouse that the Cincinnati Reds are strong enough to trade with Cincinnati Reds. Manager Robinson would not affirm or deny that negotiations were on to swap one of his fine pitchers for Wally Pipp, Reds first baseman, or Hughie Critz, spark plug of the Cincinnati infield.

Robbie has a star in Babe Herman at first base while the rest of his infield with exception of Butler at short, is woefully young. The Robbies have six good hurlers, while Aloué Luque, crack pitcher, refuses to join the Red camp, and Critz, too, is a holdout.

Rain was welcome to the Yankees at St. Petersburg Tuesday for it ended a possible defeat. Cincinnati had scored three runs in the sixth inning to break a 0-0 tie when the game ended.

The Giants, recuperating at St. Augustine from 13 exhibition games in two weeks, took an easy morning workout. A storm prevented play in the afternoon.

The Chicago White Sox encountered an old comrade, Shorty Lidge, the manager in an exhibition game against the Texas leaguers at Wichita Falls, and for old times sake, he let them have a run. The Sox were trimmed 5 to 1.

Manager McCarthy of the Cubs sent two of his pitchers over the route at Catalina Tuesday night. For the first time and the subs had to work ten-innings to gain their customary victory over the regulars.

Cincinnati Reds will make their headquarters in West Palm Beach, Fla., until they leave for the north a week from next Thursday night.

The Pittsburgh Pirates struck a stumbling block in the form of Bill Ludolph once tried out by Detroit as a pitcher, who Tuesday worked for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Boston Red Sox at New Orleans are still hustling for permanent berths.

At the thanks Carl Lind of Cleveland got for his unassisted triple play against the regulars in the Indianapolis game at Lakeland, Fla., aside from the cheers of his comrades was "lucky stuff, you had to put up your hands to keep your face from being carved in."

The Philadelphia Athletics beat the Braves 15-4, Tuesday. A major league berth looms on the baseball horizon for Jimmy Walkup, southpaw pitcher, after ten years in bush leagues.

Detroit has held an option on the diminutive left hander since he was graduated from college ten years ago, but heretofore he has been farmed out to various minor league clubs. He was with Ft. Worth last season.

On the strength of his Fort Worth record and the form he has been showing at the Tiger camp at San Antonio, Manager George Moriarty has indicated Walkup will be retained by Detroit this year.

K-C CAGERS END YEAR WITH LOOP CHAMPIONS

Kimberly—The K-C Athletics of Kimberly will end the 1927 baseball season at the Kimberly clubhouse Thursday, when they take on the State League champions, the Sheboygan American Legion team. All hope of landing in first place in the league was lost last week when the Sheboygan squad handed Fond du Lac a setback 2 to 3 at Sheboygan. Kimberly is in second place in the league standings having won 11 and lost 4 games. Sheboygan, the league champions, has lost two games losing one game to Kohler and another game to Two Rivers. Should Kimberly hand this squad a defeat, they will have lost three games and be league champions by virtue of a one game lead over the Kimberly team.

Cobb Asks No More Favors Than Mack's Rawest Rook

St. Myers, Fla.—"I'm just a ball player. I don't want no favors or no special treatment. I want to be treated like a star. Treat me like any other one on the ball club. I don't want any more consideration than you would give a promising rookie."

That, according to Connie Mack, was the gist of Ty Cobb's first speech after greeting the manager of the Athletics at their training camp here.

It made a great impression upon Connie. The word was soon passed to the players. The spirit of Cobb has been absorbed by the Athletics. It

No changes were made among the leaders in the state pin meet of the Appleton League Tuesday evening on the Elk Alleys when two Appleton Boosters teams, one Appleton regular and one from New London and one from Twelve Corners took the drives.

The high score among the regulars was a 2697 shot by the New London Legion Post, No. 243, which falls far below the 2826 score which holds fifth place for the Little Chute Chute in the Boosters event, his 2638 score, made by the S. and O. Chevrolet Co. with a 2435.

Wednesday evening six Appleton Boosters teams take the drives and Thursday evening is open as far as the tourney is concerned. Friday night a big double and singles bowlers from Kaukauna, New London, Blair, Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Port Washington, Sun Prairie, Cedarburg, South Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Pewaukee, and Appleton.

He has not been asked whether he will play in the outfield or infield this year.

SATURDAY GAME

Kimberly-Clark vs. Fox River (Champs)

Uncorking a whirlwind attack, featured by classy shooting, the Citizens Bank five surprised the Coated Paper Co. team in a Y. M. C. Industrial loop game Tuesday evening at the association gym, 23-8. The game had been classed as a tossup between a pair of third-place squads exceptionally evenly matched. The win raised the Bankers from fourth to a tie for third for the season with the Coated men.

In the second game of the evening the Kimberly-Clark team had little trouble holding its first-place run by whipping the tailend Riverside crew, 19-7. The loss placed the Riversides in a triple tie for seventh and last in the loop with Co. D and the Galpin Hardware.

The Voecks brothers, Wally and Herb lead the Citizens to victory and a third-place tie. Each got five baskets and a free throw for 22 of the points. C. Voecks added another free try. For the Coated men Munster, Stammer, Eggert and Rectz each not in the lineup. Two regulars were

Van Ryzin lead Kimberly with five baskets and a free try for 11 of 10 points. Pocan added two and LaRoux and Clark, one each. For the losers Frieders had one of each kind of shot and Lutz and Klundt each scored a ringer.

Wisconsin Host To Big Ten Track-Field Event

Madison—With the announcement of the program of events for the Big Ten Outdoor Track and Field Meet to be held here May 26 and 27, plans are already being made to entertain hosts of celebrities who will be attracted by the games and the coaches meetings that have been scheduled.

Director George Little, University of Wisconsin, who with A. A. Stagg and Major John Griffith, has been appointed by the conference directors to manage and meet, is busily engaged with committees appointments. It is the wish of the Badger athletic chief to afford the visitors an entertaining and varied program during their three days stay in Madison.

The decision of the Big Ten directors at a recent session in Chicago to hold their football schedule meetings here on May 25 has added a new line of interest to the affair. Although the grid opponents for the next four seasons were selected sometime ago, no dates for games were chosen. The actual playing charts will be mapped out in a joint meeting of the directors and football coaches.

The basketball coaches will convene at the call of their chairman to arrange schedules for the season of 1927-28, and the head track mentors will of course get their heads together in reference to the conduct of the outdoor title games. The Big Ten faculty representatives are also slated to gather here for one of their periodical parleys.

Some of the preliminary runs to the Conference games will be staged at Camp Randall Stadium on Friday afternoon, and the championship events will take place the following afternoon. A baseball game will be played late Friday between the Badgers and Minnesota, with the starting time postponed until after the track preliminaries have been run.

The most unusual attraction of the week-end will be the Regatta to be held Saturday on Lake Mendota. Although no word has been given out as to the events of the water meet.

1ST SOFTBALL TEAM OF APPLETON SENDS OUT '27 CHALLENGE

Spring is surely here. The first softball team to be organized in Appleton this year was completed this week and the first challenges to games were broadcast with the formation of the Appleton Homebrewers. The Homebrewers challenge any softball team in the city or Fox River valley to a game in spite of the fact that the snow is not yet off the ground.

The team is composed mostly of Appleton high school athletes. Included in its ranks are Herbert Lutz, Willard Kruse, Chester Johnston, Harold Belase, Julius Shapiro, Rade and several others. For games managers are requested to write Sam Hilkowitz, 532 N. Rankin-st., or Julius Shapiro, 1002 N. Onida-st.

Madison—Sixteen high school basketball quintets, winners of their respective district tournaments throughout Wisconsin, swung into action here Wednesday at the University Gymnasium in the initial round of the annual state championship meet.

Several of the prep squads arrived Wednesday evening, while the balance of the young athletes made their appearance early Wednesday. Coach Guy Sundt, member of the Badger Athletic staff and manager of the team, has arranged for the to be housed at various frame homes on the campus.

Twenty-seven games will be staged during the four days of the tournament with the opening contest scheduled for 10 o'clock Wednesday morning between Ashland and Masha. The first round will be concluded at 9 o'clock in the evening when the two local fives, Madison Central and the University of Wisconsin High School take the field with the odds favoring the former.

The officiating will be of the highest character as Fred Young, one of the Big Ten's veteran tooters, will handle the majority of the games assisted by two prominent Illinois biters, Howard Millard and Ed Pyper.

Eau Claire rules a slight favor to come through in the upper half of the chart while LaCrosse and Madison Central should move into the semifinals in the lower bracket.

Shreveport, La.—(P)—A dark cloud in the Chicago White Sox camp caused by the removal from the east of John Mostil, sensational outfielder, has shown a silver lining. To offset in a measure the loss of the outfielder, spring indications are that the club will have two competent left-handed pitchers, Bert Cole and Charles Barnabe, both from California. If their early promise holds true the Chicago pitching staff will be greatly bolstered.

There is ample right-handed talent available. The two Teds, Lyons, and Blankenship and the veteran Urban Faber, Connally and Thumas are brought over from last year and the experienced Elmer Jacobs may assist. Yankees and Senators were called upon to complete the White Sox infield, Aaron Ward and Roger Peckinpaugh coming in trades.

Ward will play second base with Peck starting at short. Earl Sheely will be back at first with Captain Knabe taking care of third. John Clancy, hard-hitting first baseman from the Southern association will be kept and Moe Berg, former Princeton infielder, will join the club when he has completed some post graduate work at Columbia university. Mostil's attack on himself with knife and razor blade left a serious outfield problem. The Sox has only five outfielders and expected to keep them all. Falk and Barrett were brought over from last season and Iko Boone and Randolph Moore added. The starting outfield will probably be Bib Falk in left field, Barrett in center and Iko Boone in right.

Ward, with the New York Yankees last year has been going fast in spring training and is ready to assume full responsibility for the position. Peckinpaugh is also in good shape and promises to have a good season with his fourth major league club in years. Peck played only 57 games for Washington last year but may take the ante considerably with the Sox. The White Sox problem will be the expected one of the outfield. Barrett, while a good player, will not be able to take Mostil's place. Boone may add to the offensive but may leave something to be desired in defense.

Schalk is depending on his pitcher to carry him on. If Cole and Barnabe come through, expected by the Sox will have a well balanced staff.

University state of all tournament conflicts was quickly turned into a maze of color with the pennants of competing high school teams.

Ashland and Menasha, from northern Wisconsin and the Fox River valley respectively, opposed each other at the Zero hour—10 o'clock, officially starting the 1927 hard court derby for Badgerdom.

An hour later, quintets from Eau Claire and Neokosa took the floor to conclude morning entertainment for the cheering thousands who milled about the building.

Three favorites, Madison Central, Eau Claire and LaCrosse, all were scheduled to meet strong opposition in their opening games with the Madison entry facing the most severe test against a home town rival, Wisconsin high.

Thursday only eight teams will remain in the titular running, a group which will be split by the following day and finally narrowing down to a battle Saturday night between finalists.

QUESTION OF DAY IS HOW MUCH WILL INDIANS MISS TRIS

Spirit of Club Gives Impression Speaker Will Not Be Missed—Evans

BY BILLY EVANS
Lakeland, Fla.—How much is the Cleveland ball club going to miss Tris Speaker?

This was the big question that occurred to me as I watched the Indians in action under their new manager, Jack McCallister.

Viewing in importance with the loss of Speaker, as I saw it, was the spirit of the ball club. I wondered if this spirit would be able to balance the loss of baseball's greatest outfielder
from the ranks of the Indians.

On no other team in Florida did I see as much enthusiasm as in the camp of the Cleveland club. Underlikable Jack McCallister the players seem bent on proving to the world that the team doesn't need Tris
Speaker to be a pennant contender.

It has a spirit of not only fight but harmony as well.

It is my opinion that the Cleveland
ball club is going to miss Tris Speaker an awful lot before the close of the 1927 season. During my stay here,
I was the only person of that belief.

Everyone else connected with the ball club seemed to think that Speaker's loss was a period of usefulness last season, that his legs are going to trouble him a lot, that his demotion to the ranks of the mere player has robbed him of much of his interest and enthusiasm.

While it wasn't definitely established as to who would play the position
although Summa was performing most capably in center and had the club players and the executives expressed the opinion that the open spot in the outfield would be filled by one of several possibilities, without the club suffering any great handicap.

It is baseball precedent that when any star player leaves a club to another, it is always an easy matter to paint a picture of how little his passing will be felt. I have seen a score of such cases. No great difficulty is experienced in minimizing his importance.

From a Cleveland standpoint, it will be mighty fine if the loss of Speaker doesn't take away a thing from the defense or offense. If such proves to be the case, the club is again going to be a strong contender. Otherwise his absence may prove a serious handicap.

Speaker was a great ball player last season, despite the fact that his ailing legs had to be carefully nursed.
From my baseball experience, I cannot figure how any club can lose so valuable a player without paying the penalty.

If Johnny Mostil is unable to play much longer, and that seems to be the final verdict, Ray Schalk's debut
as a manager will get a severe jolt.
If Ed Roush fails to report to the New York Giants there is going to be a large void in McGraw's outfield.
When you recall that McGraw parted
with so versatile and brilliant a player as George Kelly to get Roush, it is easy to figure the importance he places on his value to the club.

If an injury put Al Simmons of the Athletics out of the running for the year Connie Mack would do a lot of waiting. As a matter of fact, Mack is of the opinion that the addition of the two veteran outfield stars, Ty Cobb and Zach Wheat, will just about make his aggregation a pennant winner.

On the other hand, so clever a manager as Eucly Harris of Washington goes on record that he regards the coming of Speaker as a pennant punch, the one man who will put the Nationals over.

So enthusiastic is the spirit of the Cleveland ball club that I feel it is in earnest in the belief that even so along as well without Speaker, I don't believe it is a more gesture on the part of players or officials.

However, we shall see what we shall see. Time will tell.

INTERCLASS CAGE MEET
WON BY SENIOR GIRLS

Senior girls won the interclass basketball tournament by defeating the junior Monday afternoon at Appleton high school gymnasium, 21 to 12.
Ethel Mertle starred for the seniors
scoring five field goals and one free throw. The junior star was Ruth Radtke, who made five field goals.

Others in the senior lineup were Carolyn Schaefer, Helen Beach, Dorothy Stark, Greendyke Vandervort, and Leone Lemberg. Junior players were

Indian Manager Thinks Rooks Will Help Squad

Lakeland, Fla.—Jack McCallister of the Cleveland Indians has fallen heir
to one of the two toughest jobs in major league ball. Bob O'Farrell, who succeeded Rogers Hornsby as pilot of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, has the other.

Cleveland finished second in the American League last season. There is nothing for McCallister to shoot at but the pennant if he is to show progress.

Cleveland fans have adopted a must-be-shown spirit. Possibly the club isn't as strong as fans believe it is,
but that cause the position of McCallister is made all the more difficult.

In analyzing McCallister's problem
at Cleveland, you find he has several things to contend with, among them
the loss of Speaker and the necessity of Burns and Uhle to continue their big years of last season.

Will Speaker's loss be so minimized that his absence will not be felt?

COLDS CAN'T MAKE SHIVERING BRITON ADOPT STEAM HEAT

Englishman Prefers Little Grate Fire to "Central Heating" Plan

BY MILTON BRONNER
London—London is today the unrivalled metropolis of aches.

Never in recent years have so many people been ailing. A succession of rapid changes in the weather in this island have brought warm days toppling upon cold days, wet days following dry days. The result is that all London is puffing and blowing.

The universal ailment is a common "cold." But this has brought in train flu, pneumonia, neuritis and rheumatism. It's an actual fact that many offices are therefore working with half their staffs.

And still these funny and stubborn English adhere to their old ways because what was good enough for their great-grandfathers MUST be good enough for them. They stick to their dinky little grate fires. They hold in abhorrence the very idea of steam heating—"central heating" as they label it.

Get it: the scene is a residential hotel one of those queer English institutions a sort of half-way house between a plain boarding house and a swish hotel.

Some thirty English of all ages
and both sexes are huddled as close as they can to the grate fire. They are great excoction with pocket handkerchiefs. There is much sniffing and snuffling and sneezing and wheezing. The lone American in the crowd has said something about the beauties of steam heat:

"If this place were steam heated
you wouldn't get a cold. A fairly comfortable lounge through cold halls into icy bedrooms and bathrooms and diningrooms. Every place in the hotel would be of the same temperature. Every place would be comfortable."

To which responds an old maid
with auburn hair and a faded complexion: "What central heating! It's deadly! I've never been to America and I've never experienced your central heating but they tell me everybody has a cold!"

Then she started sneezing and at once there was an echo of wheezes
and sneezes from all the charmed circle.

And they wondered why the lone American smiled sardonically and unsympathetically at their sufferings.
They will always wonder. They will never get it. Only the English who have lived abroad and have learned to like a little plain creature comfort,
will understand.

STATE DEPARTMENT IS FACING REVOLT ALL OF ITS OWN

Claim "Inner Circle" Blocks Attempt to Make Diplomacy
a Career

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—The Department of State, which takes a more or less superior interest in the revolutions of other countries in this hemisphere,
has suddenly found itself suffering
from an internal revolt all its own.

Charges that wealth and social position are the yardsticks for promotion in this nation's foreign service, as openly made by persons formerly connected with the department, are said to have caused more distress among the higher-ups of the service recently than almost any foreign situation
one can name.

This war is primarily one between the members of the consular service
and an "inner circle" of top-grade diplomats who are accused of promoting young members of the diplomatic branch to high places at home and abroad to the total neglect of older and more experienced members of the consular branch.

Recent assignments of diplomatic plums have stirred up a tremendous amount of dissension in the ranks and the whole service was tipped over by Lawrence Dennis, when he resigned as secretary of the legation in Nicaragua. Dennis was once charge d'affaires at Managua and engaged in most of the secret diplomacy which preceded the present situation there,
but he is not a consul and the consular malcontents insist that the case of Dennis himself, although it has focused attention on the present state of affairs, should not be allowed to cloud the main issue which they say is the conversion of the higher classes of diplomacy into a club for wealthy men and those aspiring to places in society.

Ever since passage of the Rogers Act, which placed both diplomatic and consular branches into a unified foreign service divided into nine classes with salaries ranging from $2,500 to $8,000, the "inner circle" at the department has been yodelling sweet carols of praise to this precious system which took politics out of diplomacy in favor of the career system and offered incentive for the men who had worked up in the service to get ahead.

Suddenly Dennis entered this songfest with a note both long and sour.
And a substantially large proportion of the consular branch threatened to form a walling chorus for him. The consuls—both those of the rank in the department's promotion policies and accuse him of coming forth publicly with their charges unless they are prepared to resign. But they have much to say in private.

Dennis, of course, did resign, in a cablegram bitterly attacking the department's promotion policies and accusing the all-powerful personnel board of deliberate partiality. Two other resignations had preceded that of Dennis. Tracy Lave, consul general at Buenos Aires and one of the for-

PIONEERS WILL PLAN MIDSUMMER PICNIC

Plans for a midsummer picnic and meeting will be discussed at a meeting of directors of the Outagamie County Pioneers association within the next two weeks, according to Fred Harriman, secretary. Last summer
the picnic was held at Hortonville,
and it probably will be at Kaukauna
or Seymour this year.

ISSUE WARNING NOT TO OVERLOAD AUTO TRUCKS

A warning against hauling loads heavier than 7,000 pounds over state and county trunk highways not paved has been sounded by the county highway department. Maximum weight limit includes truck or vehicle carrying the load. Maximum loads permitted on concrete highways are 12,000 pounds.

These limits are provided in the Wisconsin statutes, it is pointed out.
It is important that draying companies and other persons engaged in trucking comply with these regulations, especially at this time of year, according to highway officials. Unpaved highways are soft, and the excessively heavy loads not only dig up roads, but often ruin the road bed.

Loads in excess of 12,000 pounds are apt to damage concrete highways, and more particularly in the spring, it is said. With the frost coming out of the ground, portions of the concrete oftentimes are pushed out of place and a heavily loaded truck sometimes breaks

the distended material.

MYSTERY OF THE POPULAR CIGAR

We admit, Mr. Smoker, it is a mystery.
We confess that right in our own factory there are differences of opinion as to the real reason for the growing popularity of San Felipe at $c.
Is it that mild blend, the delightful aroma, the smoothness, or the mellowness that makes San Felipe such a big favorite? To meet the increasing demand we have had to enlarge our factory production on San Felipe by the mil-

LEGION OFFICIALS AT JOINT MEETING OF NEW LONDON POST

Frank Schneller and Marshall Graff Address Post and Auxiliary

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—At the joint meeting of the New London and Clintonville legions, held at the home of Mrs. Frank Schneller, the speakers of the evening were Marshall Graff, district representative of the third district, and Frank Schneller, district representative of the second district. The meeting was attended by a large number of legionnaires and auxiliary members.

A musical program was presented by talent from this city and from Appleton. Mrs. Schneller, with Mrs. Graff accompanying her, sang two solos, the first, "Lullaby by Kate Van der Meer," and the second, "Happy Days," Miss Rose Edminister and Mrs. Milton Ullrich sang two duets, and community singing followed the formalities with Frank Schneller leading. Little Miss Phyllis Christian, accompanied with a clever interpretation of the Charleston.

D. B. Egan of the local legion, spoke on the monument project. Mr. Egan stressed the fact that under no circumstances would the legion beg for funds with which to promote the memorial. Interest is to be aroused in every way possible through the school children, private individuals and organizations, but if citizens and legionnaires fail to put over the fund raising task in 48 hours it will be abandoned. Mr. Egan stated that it is his firm belief that the matter, given the right sort of cooperation will be a success. He stated that it must be a success because the legion work has been given to the veterans of the Civil war that some sort of a memorial be erected on Memorial day.

DISCUSSIONS LEGION AIMS
Mr. Graff emphasized the seven fundamental principles upon which the legion is based. He brought out the fact that the legion has illustrated these principles and ideals in marked degree.

The aims of the legion so far have brought about the following noteworthy accomplishments: The rehabilitation of veterans, the caring for disabled veterans, the adjusted compensation act, and the setting aside of a five million dollar fund to carry on child welfare work of former service men. During last year the legion's ideal has been to carry on some work that would benefit the public and the home community. Every one of the eleven thousand legion posts has started some work along these lines.

Mr. Schneller, in his opening remarks asked legionnaires what will be their answer to sleeping buddies question and what has been done to keep the faith and to uphold the work left for them to do in their own communities. "Only by our care of children, by our work among the sick soldiers and our community work may we be able to answer that we have met the standards set for us," stated Mr. Schneller. "Our work in the community among the children has just begun," he continued. He expressed his admiration for the legion's stand upon the memorial subject. The G. A. R. veterans have served their day, and served it well, he said. It is for men of the legion to take up their work where they have left it.

All anti-American talk is started through anarchistic thoughts and propaganda, stated Mr. Schneller. It behooves the legion to combat this sort of thing, to educate the young in the truths of patriotism so that they may know the real meaning of the word.

Poppy day, its meaning and the need for backing it was also brought out by the speaker. He cited incidents relating to wounded soldiers in the hospitals of this state whose sole maintenance is gained from the making of poppies. Stripping little stories from real life were told by Mr. Schneller, telling of the wounded and their need for support. He urged the need for every one to interest themselves in the coming sale of poppies, which will be on May 25.

LIONS CLUB ENTERTAINS H. S. BASKETBALL FIVE

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Members of the New London high school basketball squad, the athletic coaches, A. H. Kloten and C. T. Polomis and city superintendent of school R. J. Hiker Wins Wife And Bet; Now Their Goal's $39,500

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Jack McCoy, who claims to be the champion walker of the world, with his wife, Mrs. McCoy, arrived in this city on Tuesday en route to Malifac, Nova Scotia, McCoy, swarthy and stocky, appeared before an audience of legionnaires and their friends at Legion hall on Tuesday and explained his trip. A bet, which involved three men who started at Halifax, and walked handpicked as far as Toronto where their trail was divided, was made in 1925. One of the men was to take the southern route, one a northern and the other a central route, the final destination being San Francisco. Mr. McCoy states that he took the northern route, and of the three was the only one to finish the hike. The final wager of $15,000 was won by McCoy.

The San Francisco Chronicle then made May the wager that he could not make the return trip to Halifax in the same time that it took him to make his first trip. He covered his wager with the $15,000 just won on the first hike, the claimants. The Chronicle then made a second wager, McCoy said, that he could not find himself a wife on his return to the east. This wager was for $10,000. Should he find a wife who would consent to hike with him on the same conditions she is to receive $4,500. He found the girl in Arizona, proposed and was accepted. At present Mr. and Mrs. McCoy are considerably ahead of their schedule. If they arrive at Halifax within the scheduled time and have hiked up to all the conditions and terms entered upon they will receive the sum of $39,500.

McCoy states that they can make no short cuts, are not allowed to retrace their route or not allowed to accept lodgings from any city or town officials, and if put in jail for any cause their contract is cancelled. They are not allowed to beg or do any work to earn money. Everything they get must be given to them voluntarily.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—The Jolly Four club was entertained at the home of Mrs. S. L. Therns Monday evening. Mrs. Mose Barlow was awarded the prize for high score at five hundred. Mrs. Charles Schmalenberg will entertain the club at her home on Monday, March 28.

On account of various other activities being held the same evening, only a small crowd attended the skat party given under the auspices of the Catholic Women's club at Parish hall Monday evening. Those present spent the evening informally. Plans are being made for another skat party to be held in the near future.

The Autumn Leaf club met with Mrs. Henry Stern Tuesday afternoon for the usual game of five hundred. Mrs. Mary E. LaZaroff was high scorer, with 225, and Ross, with 224, were high men for the local legion teams.

Sugar Bush Pinnen Take Two Out of Three Games from Marion Five

New London—The local American Legion post sent two teams to bowl at the legion tournament at Appleton, Tuesday evening. The team hit the pins for a 904, 852 and 851 count. The second team composed of boosters rolled 795, 716 and 784.

On Garot's alleys Tuesday evening the Sugar Bush pinnen took two out of three games from the Marion team. The Plywood Cutters took three straight games from the Yard Crew. Hutchinson of Sugar Bush with 198, Martin, with 513, had high series. Shoemaker, with 225, and Ross, with 224, were high men for the local legion teams.

DENMARK COMPANY GETS WAUPACA-GO HIGHWAY CONTRACT

Work Is Let Last Week at Wisconsin Rapids to Georgenson Construction Co.

Special to Post-Crescent
Fremont—Contracts for the principal road improvement projects in Waupaca-co were let at Wisconsin Rapids Thursday. The program includes improvement and construction of gravel, macadam and concrete highways for 1927, authorized by a bond issue approved in June, 1926.

Three sections of paving, on highways 18 and 95, including a short piece of road in Outagamie-co, were let from the bridge across the Wolf River at Fremont to the county line near Dale, and from the intersection of highway 95 on highway 18 to the county line, totaling 9.16 miles, were let as one job.

The contract was awarded to the J. Georgenson Construction Co. of Denmark, whose bid was $310,443.50. The contract was awarded to the J. Georgenson Construction Co. of Denmark, whose bid was $310,443.50. The contract was awarded to the J. Georgenson Construction Co. of Denmark, whose bid was $310,443.50.

The paving will be 20 feet wide, with a total roadway of eighty feet. At the intersection of highway 95 on highway 18, a half mile east of Fremont, the pavement will be 40 feet wide for a distance of 300 feet. There will be arterial signs placed there.

The construction company will have a difficult problem to solve in providing a detour road for highway 18, which passes across the bridge at Fremont, the only bridge on the Wolf River for 40 miles. If the pavement is laid in half sections, the highway traffic during the summer can be accommodated, it is believed. Work will commence as soon as weather permits.

CANDIDATES NOMINATED
A caucus for the nomination of the various town officers of Wolf River to be voted on at the regular spring election on April 5, was held at the O. M. A. Bartel place at Onitua at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The following were nominated: Supervisors, William Struzinski, chairman, Fred Krenke; Fred Bohren, Harry Wentzel; and Henry Bauer, Hubert Friehorn; clerk, Grover E. F. Johnson; assessor, Robert E. Ristad; Magnus Johnson; assessor, Harold Posselt; Charles Hahn, collector, Louis Voss, George Wohlt.

Caucuses to nominate officers for the various village and town offices to be voted on at the regular election, will be held at the village hall, at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, and at the town hall, at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The snowstorm of Monday and Tuesday increased the difficulties of traffic on the main travelled gravel roads near Fremont. Motorists have experienced delays and detours on highways 18 and 95, between Fremont and Dale and the southern Waupaca-co line. A number of car owners have lost spare tires not securely attached to the rear of their automobiles.

Mrs. A. M. Sader entertained members of Riverside camp, Royal Neighbors, at a social meeting at her home Friday evening. Mesdames H. E. Redemann, George H. Dobbins, Arthur Brown, O. W. Roessler, F. G. Emmons, H. A. F. Schulz, N. H. Johnson, R. W. Sommer and Arthur Rapp attended.

WAUPACA H. S. SENIORS AGAIN GIVE CLASS PLAY

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Monday afternoon "The O' My Heart," the senior class play which was presented at the Palace theatre about a month ago, was given for the benefit of high school and grade students, who had not had an opportunity to see the first performance. The attendance was large and the play was as well presented as the first time. Miss Helen Schneider was the director.

Miss Mathilda Mathiasen entertained the members of the Elite Sewing club at a 6:30 dinner at her home on Center-st last Thursday evening. The guests were Mesdames Henry Anderson and Stanley J. Smith, and Misses Edna Pommer, Etta Miller, Ruth Kow, Marianne Schroeder, Helga Anderson, Clara Petrick and Ardale Hanson.

The Parent Teachers association recently discussed the subject of getting more playground apparatus for the public school children. Various apparatus were appointed for committees to raise the necessary money. A basketball game Friday evening between the local high school team and Weyauwega, will be one of the affairs.

The Monday Night club met in regular session at the club rooms Monday evening. The lesson was in charge of Miss Mary McGill, instructor in English at the high school. Two plays were given by the members of Miss McGill's English classes. Those who took the principal parts in the first play, "The Romanesque," by Edmund Gossett, were: Miss Alice Lubenetski, Gordon Anderson and Signore Hanson.

The second presentation was "Free Speech," a Russian play depicting the bolsheviks, in which the principal parts were taken by Carroll Swenson, Harold Jymson, Ruth Fallgatter, and Edward Hart. A piano solo, "Tam O' Shanter," was rendered by Miss Aloine Miller.

ROTARY ENTERTAINS CLINTONVILLE TEAM

Coach Quinn Thanks Club for Excellent Spirit Shown by Organization

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—The Rotary club entertained the high school basketball team and its coach at a banquet, Monday noon, at the Ward hotel. After dinner, several addresses were made. Captain Walter Kruse spoke on the work of the past season and extended the thanks of the squad to the Rotarians. Coach Roy Quinn voiced the appreciation of the squad and the school for the excellent spirit shown by the clubmen in furnishing the entertainment.

At the opening of the banquet, President Richard Milbauer gave a few words of welcome to the guests and in keeping with the event gave a comparative summary of all the achievements of the various renowned teams which Clintonville has had in the past.

Members of the team tried a basket shooting contest on a small scale. Each one scoring a basket was given a reward. Prizes were about evenly divided among Kruse, W. Martin, Stevens and Below. The Rotarians also tried their luck at basket shooting with good results. The ten guests were Capt. Walter Kruse, George Martin, Walter Martin, Walter Stevens, Donald Below, William Merrill, Glen Diller, Lowell Larson, Marvin Blair and Coach Roy Quinn.

The Women's club met with Mrs. C. F. Folkman, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Robert Blair, district chairman of Americanization in the Eighth congressional district, gave a talk on her work. Mrs. James Sorenson read a paper, "A Plea for the Small Town," and a one-act play was read by five club members, Mrs. W. A. Olen, Mrs. Max Stelz, Mrs. H. G. Engel, Mrs. B. J. Donley and Mrs. C. B. Stanley. Plans are under way for a contest dealing with some form of city improvement. Following the meeting lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. F. Folkman and Mrs. A. G. Bohr. The club will meet again April 4.

Friends of Mrs. Charles Lyons tendered her a party Saturday evening, the occasion being in honor of her birthday anniversary. The following named were present: Mr. and Mrs. J. Monty, Mr. and Mrs. George Long, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Broh, Mr. and Mrs. John Meinhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Schauder, Mr. and Mrs. George Bess, Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidt, Mrs. R. F. McNelly, Mrs. John Karczewski, Mrs. N. Peterson. The guests presented Mrs. Lyons with many gifts.

ZIMMERMAN SINGS WISCONSIN GLORIA TO WORLD'S ADMEN

Advertising Writers Hear Wisconsin's Governor Advertise State

Milwaukee (AP)—Wisconsin is the best state in the Union and there is no better place to talk about it than before a convention of advertising men Governor Fred R. Zimmerman told members of the International Association of Advertising Men in session here Wednesday.

"I am taking advantage of the occasion to do a little advertising," the governor said, "and at the same time I hope to draw the conclusion that this state has developed through the same ideals which have made your profession a force in the world and reliability."

"During the war, Wisconsin received much advanced and unjust advertising. I am sure it will interest you to know that Wisconsin ranks first in enlistments in the World War and last in the number of desertions from the navy. Wisconsin also ranks first in going 'over the top' in every financial drive that was conducted during the war. This is our record, and I hope never again to hear or see the statement that Wisconsin is not an integral part of the United States or that her people are lacking in patriotic devotion to their country. Let's have 'truth in advertising' on this point."

BEST IN UNION
"Let me call your attention to the fact that Wisconsin is 20 years ago was the best governed large city on the American continent."

"Wisconsin is the dairy state, par excellence. It manufactures more than two-thirds of all the cheese produced in the United States. In addition to this it produces 11 per cent of all the butter and 30 per cent of the evaporated and condensed milk of the country. It has a dairy and a half million tons of milk a year, and a half billion pounds of milk per year."

"The citizens of Milwaukee have cause to be proud of its achievements. Sixteen of Milwaukee's industries are the largest of their kind in the world. Here were manufactured the huge steam shovels which dug the Panama canal. Here, too, were made the electric controlling devices for the battle ships of Uncle Sam's navy. Here is located the largest motorcycle plant in the world; the largest car shops in this country, owned by a single railroad, and the largest municipality owned museums on the American continent."

MOTIVE POWER
"Advertising is entitled to the cooperation of the state in its legislative effort to foster and enforce the highest ethical standards, for advertising is the motive power of business. And when its quality is impaired then business must suffer. Business being the main activity of our lives and in fact touching our lives at almost every point, must be kept clean and efficient for the state and the advertising profession march abreast in their long movement upward toward a higher and better idealism."

"Advertising cannot in all cases be left to hit or miss methods of development. It must govern itself or be governed by public authority, always having in view the highest standards of social evolution. It must go along with the individual and of society. In a large sense business is life and advertising is business. Lack of truth in advertising means lack of soundness in business and lack of truth in our era, the social, economic and political life. The state, therefore, has a vital interest in advertising."

LENTEN SERVICE
Special Lenten services will be held at 7:15 Wednesday night at St. Olaf Lutheran church. The sermon subject will be Jesus Led Away from Pilate to Herod.

INCUMBENTS ARE NOMINATED IN CITY

nominated as candidates for supervisors from that ward, William Wolf, the third candidate was eliminated as he polled only 31 votes.

The name of Paul Sell was written in by 56 voters at the polls and he will be a candidate opposed to P. Earle as candidate for alderman from the Second ward. Mr. Earle polled 70 votes, P. H. Ryan received 51 votes for supervisor from this ward and the name of Arnold Herman was written in by six voters, but this number is not sufficient to cause his name to be placed on the ballot at the regular election.

FIGHT IN THIRD WARD
The sharpest pre-election fight was in the Third ward. W. H. Cramer, candidate for alderman, polled 461 votes as compared with 172 for C. E. Smith, incumbent. Frank Groh was eliminated from the race as he polled only 117 votes.

T. H. Ryan, candidate for county supervisor from the Third ward, polled 426 votes as compared with 294 for J. Bayer, incumbent.

R. P. McGillan, incumbent left the race between four candidates for alderman from the Fourth ward. McGillan polled 181 votes and C. J. Wasengren received 109 and these two men's names will be placed on the ticket at the regular election. Martin Van Ryzan, Jr., and Frank Ponschack, the other two candidates for this office, polled 55 and 23 votes respectively.

FOSE SECOND IN FIFTH
W. H. Vander Heyden led a field of three in the race for alderman from the Fifth ward with 192 votes. Charles Fose, incumbent, was second with 107 votes. Edward Kleist the third candidate polled 100 votes. E. A. Killion polled 150 votes for supervisor from this ward as compared with 194 for Peter Radermacher, incumbent.

Philip Vogt polled 155 votes for alderman from the Sixth ward as compared with 123 cast for J. H. Fiedler, incumbent. The three cornered fight for supervisor from this ward was won by L. C. Jens, with 146 votes and Fred A. Sievert with 141 votes. Louis Wurl, the third candidate, received only 51 votes.

The election will be held on April 5 and six aldermen and six supervisors will be elected.

Preaches in German
The Rev. W. R. Wetzel, pastor of St. John Evangelical church, will deliver a German sermon at the Lenten services at the Immanuel Evangelical church at Oshkosh, Thursday night. The Rev. Paul Stange of Oshkosh will be the speaker at the local church last week.

Miss Margaret, Raddatz of Little Chute returned last Thursday from a three months visit in California.

MENASHA LOSES IN OPENING GAME OF STATE CAGE MEET

Pails Stage Strong Comeback but Lose in Last Minutes to Ashland, 20-17

Madison (AP)—Ashland-High school advanced to the second round of the state basketball tournament here Wednesday by defeating Menasha, 20 to 17. A last half rally by the Fox river valley squad gave it a temporary advantage but two long shots gave Ashland the lead again and they held it until the close. At half time the score was Ashland 12, Menasha 9.

The Ashland lads took an early lead which was maintained through the greater part of the game. During the first quarter Menasha failed to score a field goal. Both teams resorted to mid floor shots in the opening minutes of play, a practice which was repeated frequently during the remainder of the session with only fair success. Spurring at the beginning of the second half, Menasha overtook Ashland and with about five minutes to go held a one-point advantage. This was quickly erased when Carlson and Carpenter scored from the field.

Eau Claire high school's case squad had an easy time eliminating Nekeos from the state championship contest, running up a 24 to 6 score in a first round game.

With a clever passing attack and an effective guarding combination consisting of Gillson and Kohlike, the Eau Claire lads held Nekeos scoreless until late in the third period. At the half Eau Claire led 12 to 0.

Wednesday, Kenosha and New Richmond were to clash in another first round game followed by the Keokuk-Platteville and the LaCrosse-Waterloo games. Eau Claire and Ashland will meet in a second round game Thursday afternoon.

K. P. COMMITTEE TO GIVE REPORT

The committee in charge of Past Chancellor's night which will be observed by Knights of Pythias on March 31, will give a report at the regular lodge meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday night in Castle hall. Schumann-Heink, At 65, Still Thrills Music World

Another triumph in New York city was made by Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink when she sang with the New York Philharmonic society on March 1.

SCHUMANN-HEINK

More than 175,000 persons have heard the famous contralto in the 66

concerts she has sung so far this season. Celebrating at 65 the fiftieth anniversary of her debut as a public singer, Schumann-Heink has been greeted with sold-out houses of people who have thronged to hear the favorite of three generations, press announcements stated.

For the second time this season, the concert singer appeared with a New York orchestra when she sang March 1 in an all Wagner program. She sang Erda's "Warning," and Waltraute's "Narrative," the same roles which she sang at Christmas time with the New York symphony orchestra.

Olin Downes, critic of the New York Times, wrote: "They are fortunate who have not been born too late to hear her and to realize the significance of her art."

Not only in New York but also in leading cities throughout the country has Madame Schumann-Heink been accorded the highest praise. Ralph T. Jones, composer and critic of the Atlanta Constitution, wrote of her "Age cannot wither, nor custom stale the honest enthusiasm of this woman, 65 years old, stood upon the stage of the old auditorium and thrilled a crowd of 5,000 people as they have rarely been thrilled beneath its famous roof."

Mail orders for the concert may be sent to Bellinger's drug store at any time until the concert and the seat sale at the store will open on Friday March 25.

MRS. JAY BOTTINSECK
Mrs. Jay Bottinseck, 43, died at her home at Hortonville Tuesday evening from scarlet fever which she contracted five days ago when she was visiting at Hortonville. The child still is seriously ill. Surviving are her widow, son Clair William, and father, William Buck of Medina.

Open air funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and at the cemetery at Hortonville, burial will take place. The Rev. Richard Evans of Appleton, will be in charge of the services.

THEODORE SCHNEIDER
Theodore Schneider, 47, 221 N. Madison-st, died Wednesday morning. He has been an employee of the city water department for the past 13 years when he was connected with the distribution system crew.

Surviving are his wife, four children, Mrs. Stanley Donberskie of Menasha, Bernice Schneider, Orville and Reinhard Schneider, his mother; Mrs. P. H. Schneider, four brothers, Charles, Henry, and Herman Schneider of Appleton, and Fred of Menasha, two sisters, Mrs. George Furrance and Mrs. Herman Kasten of Appleton.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Saturday afternoon from the home and at 2 o'clock from St. Matthew Lutheran church. The Rev. Ph. C. Froehke will be in charge. Burial will be at Riverside cemetery.

ALVIN HENRY RASMUSSEN
Alvin Henry, four month old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Rasmussen, 518 W. Spencer-st, died Tuesday evening at the home of his parents. Besides the parents, he is survived by one brother, Warren. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 Friday morning from St. Mary church. Burial will be in the Shiocton cemetery Friday morning.

OLENSKI FUNERAL
The funeral of Mrs. Carl Olenski, 51, formerly of Appleton, who died Monday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Blank at Neenah, will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from Zion Lutheran church at Appleton. The Rev. Theodore March will conduct the services. The survivors are her widow, two sons, Richard of Milwaukee and Leo of Pelican Lake and five daughters, Mrs. Theodore Blank of Neenah, Mrs. A. Korth of Winneconne, Mrs. A. Sindemann of Sacramento, Calif., Mrs. Edward Discher of Milwaukee and Mrs. Fred Zeller of Milwaukee; 25 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

HEILIG AT HEARING TO OPPOSE CHANGE IN SCHOOL AGE LAW

Director of Vocational School
Wants Age Limit Left at 18 Years

Herb Heilig, director of the Appleton Vocational school will be one of the speakers opposing Senator W. C. Goodland's bill to reduce compulsory age limit for attending vocational schools from 18 to 16 years at a hearing before the joint legislative committee at Madison Wednesday afternoon.

So many people attended the first hearing on the bill last Thursday that more time was necessary. Manufacturers and business men sharply disagreed at the hearing. Senator Goodland declared that his measure is not an attack on the principals of education. He said that a child of 16 should have the right to carve his own career and that the provision of the law which requires boys over 15 years of age to go to school produces loafers and idleness. Senator Goodland likened the probation officers to hounds after a rabbit and declared that the state has no right to interfere with these young people who wanted to go to work.

"The question is whether you want to make a lot of bolt turners out of a lot of boys," said William Mauthe, a Fond du Lac manufacturer, speaking in opposition to the measure. Mauthe explained that the lowest job in the factory was to turn a screw on a certain bolt as a piece of machinery went by him on a traveling belt.

"It is the duty of the bolt turner to turn the same kind of bolt six days in the week," declared Mr. Mauthe. "He is only a cog in a machine. He has no use for education. The bolt turner class should be kept to a minimum and the places of opportunity will go to those who have a better education. Reduce the compulsory school age limit and you will only make the scramble between the bolt turners more fierce. I view the scheme to reduce the compulsory age law as one which would put out of business the opportunity to educate the ordinary fellow."

R. L. Colley, supervisor of the vocational school at Milwaukee, opposed the measure. Colley declared that if this bill is passed the boy of 16 would have to go to work without a further education. He said that the present law was a compulsory work law and not a compulsory education law.

HELBLE TELLS WHERE OUTSIDE WORK FITS

The place of extra-curricular activities in the high school was reported by H. H. Helble, principal of Appleton high school, Tuesday morning at the weekly meeting of principals of the Junior and senior high schools. His report was based on the findings of a committee of teachers and students at the school in a survey of extra-curricular activities of Appleton students and in schools in other cities. The chemistry textbook recently completed by Francis E. Colson, junior science teacher at Wilson junior high school, was discussed by the principals.

It was decided to cooperate with the American Social Hygiene association in working out a course of study for sex-social relationships.

CAR TAKES FIRE FROM OVERHEATED RADIATOR

An automobile owned by W. C. Smith, Appleton, caught fire shortly before noon Tuesday just as the motorist had crossed Memorial bridge from the north. The blaze was put out before any damage was done. An overheated radiator, which ignited some rags tied around a water pipe, is believed to have caused the fire. The fire department responded to an alarm turned in by the owner.

SHIOCTON PASTOR TO PREACH IN APPLETON

Rev. Louis Mielke, Shiocton, will preach a sermon in the German language at the Lutheran church at St. Matthew Lutheran church at 7:45 Thursday evening. It is announced by the pastor, Rev. Ph. A. C. Froehke. The subject of Reverend Mielke's sermon will be "The Fulfillment of the Heart of Christ." Mr. Froehke will preach in Trinity Lutheran church, Neenah, Thursday evening. Mr. Mielke, formerly of Michigan, only recently took over the Shiocton church. The former pastor, the Rev. E. Sterz, accepted a call from Racine.

BUILDER APPEALS WHEN PERMIT IS REFUSED

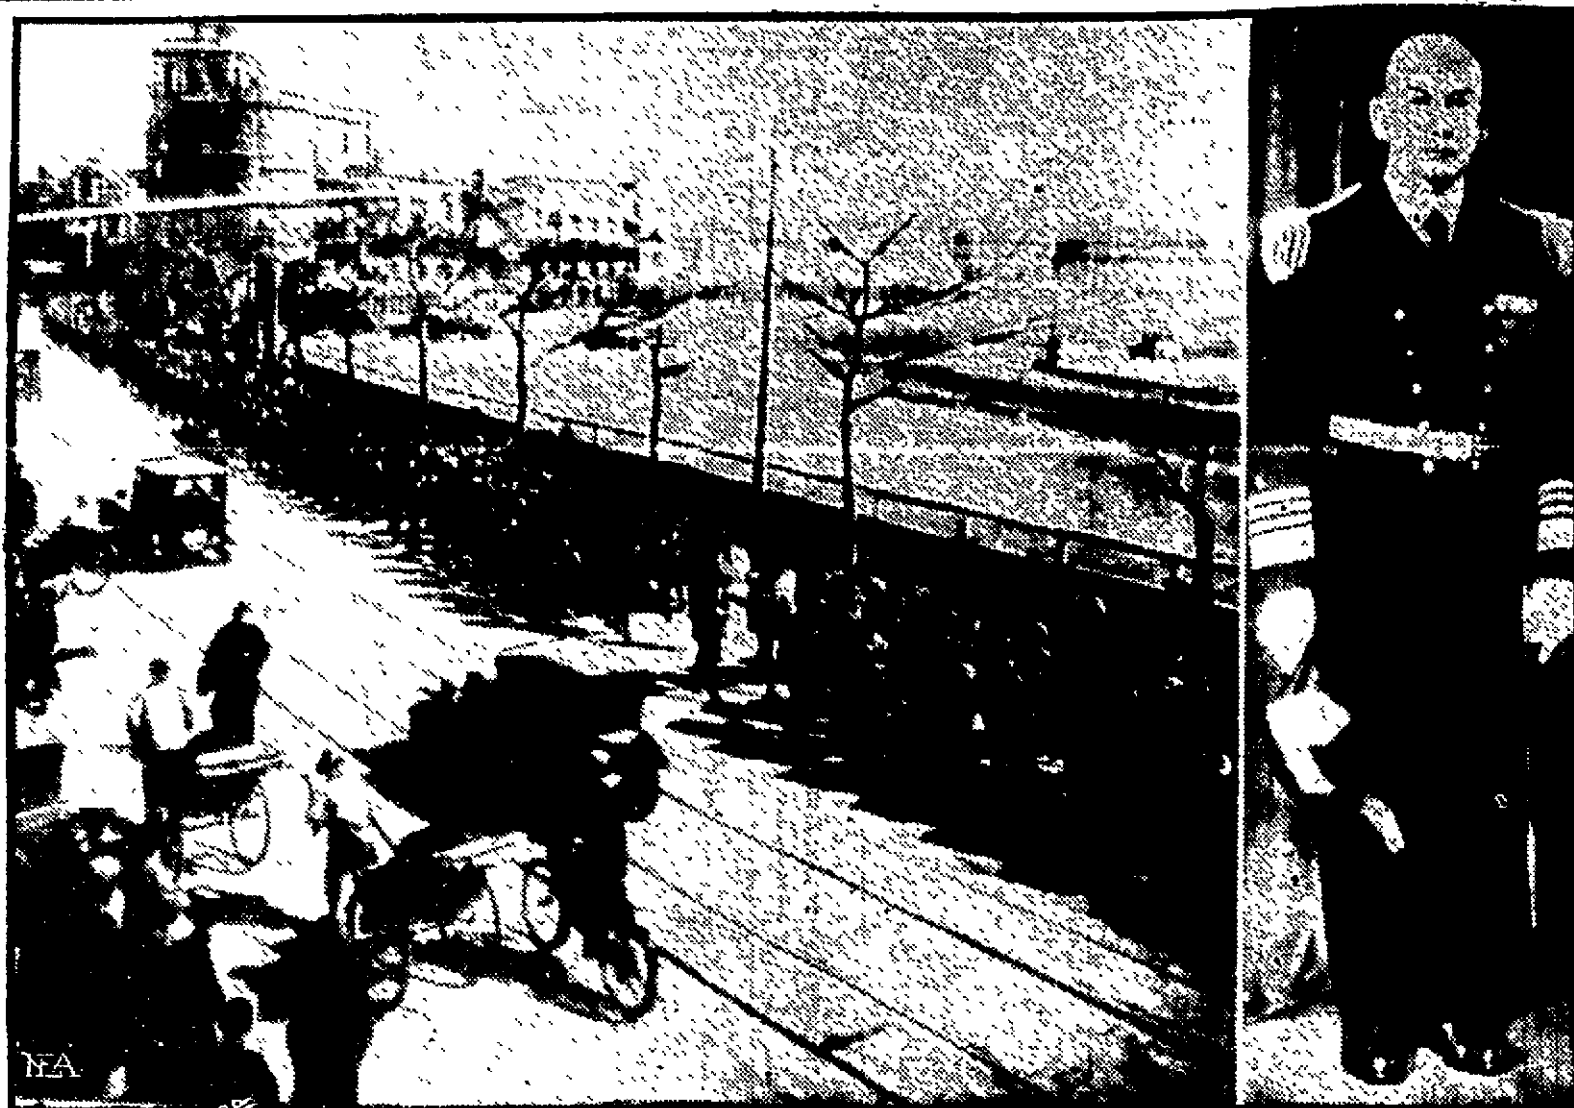

An appeal by George H. Buesing, 1209 N. Morrison-st. from the decision of Walter Zschachner, building inspector to grant a permit to build an addition to a residence will be heard by the board of appeals at a special meeting at the city hall Friday, April 1. Members of the board are Albert H. Krugmeyer, Fremont Johnston, Dr. E. W. Cooney, Edward O'Keefe, Charles Greunke and Walter Zschachner, building inspector.

According to Mr. Buesing, he made application for a permit to build an addition to his home about two weeks ago. The building inspector refused to issue the permit because the addition would not conform with the building code. Mr. Buesing stated that his house was built out of line and that the small addition will make no difference.

On Guard In Shanghai, A City Of Terror

Photos Copyright, 1927. Transmitted via A. T. & T. Wires.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

(Readers of The Post-Crescent are invited to send their bridge problems to the Bridge Editor of The Post-Crescent and they will be forwarded to Mr. Work, author of these bridge articles. Mr. Work will answer every letter.)

The pointer for today is: When Dummy holds King and one small card of the suit led, and Closed Hand has no high card in that suit, play the King if the contract be No Trump.

Yesterday the following hands were given: North (Dummy)—Sp: xxx; H: A-x-x-x; D: K-x; C: Q-9-x-x; South (Closed Hand)—Sp: A-K-J; H: Q-x-x; D: x-x-x; C: A-J-10-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1. The following questions were asked: The contract is No Trump. a. n. d. West has led a small Diamond: (1) What should Dummy play on trick one? (2) If Dummy win trick 1 with the King, what should he lead to trick two? (3) If Dummy lead the Queen of Clubs to trick 2, and East play low, what should South play?

(1) The King of Diamonds should be played on the first trick because it is the only chance for the Declarer to take a trick in that suit. West cannot have held Q-J-10 or he would have led the Queen. Therefore, if East holds the Ace, he also must hold one of the other honors, and consequently will finesse; so the King is worthless with the Ace in the East hand. Consequently there is everything to gain and nothing to lose by playing on the King.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, for only 75 cents." This is merely the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

SHORT COURSE GRADS AT U. W. TOTAL 6,748

Madison—(P)—Short course graduates at the University of Wisconsin's agriculture school reached a total of 6,748 when a class of fifty receives certificates Friday.

Graduation exercises were held in the auditorium of Agriculture hall with Prof. F. D. Farrell, president of the Kansas State Agriculture college, delivering the principal address.

The short courses at the state university were started in 1883 but no certificates were granted until 1896. A check of graduates, compiled by the alumni records office, reveals the total number of short courses completed.

The various phases of farm industry are covered in the short courses, which lasts for fifteen weeks during the winter month over a period of two years.

Prof. Thomas L. Bewick is director of the short course.

APPLETON DOG FANCIERS WILL ORGANIZE CLUB

Appleton dog fanciers are expecting to form a club for the purpose of raising funds to hold a dog clinic here, according to several dog owners. The organization probably will be known as the Appleton Dog Fancier's club and its first work will be to raise sufficient funds to hold a clinic. A dog specialist will be engaged to come here for one or two days and all dog owners will be invited to bring their animals to be examined.

Good Books Mean Everything to Children. Our Book Shop Has the Best of Reading for Them

Panty Dresses Are Smart

for the Young Lady of One to Six Years

$1-$1.95-$2.95-$3.50

Little children look their best in these immaculate panty frocks of English print or broadcloth. Smart little pockets in novel shapes are ready for the diminutive handkerchiefs. Spick and span collars and cuffs of white, a touch of smocking at the shoulder line, colored embroidery in small patterns suitable to children, give these frocks an air of smartness that appeals both to mothers and children. They are so moderately priced that it is hardly worth while to bother with making frocks for little girls. $1, $1.95, $2.95 and $3.50.

Romperettes Show Fascinating Bits of Hand Work in Contrasting Colors

From $1 to $3.50

This spring's individual touch in rompers is called the "romperette," and a very intriguing touch it is. Short-sleeved, of course, with cunning pockets and dainty collars and cuffs of white. Some have the dotted Swiss collar and cuffs, the dots being in contrasting color. A romperette with white blouse and little trousers in color is particularly pretty. The new concealed fastening is a special feature. In sizes from 6 months to 3 years at $1 to $3.50.

New Frocks of English Print, Linen and Gingham

Girls from six to fourteen years have had special attention from fashion experts this spring. No reason now why they shouldn't be as smartly dressed as any member of the family. The English print, so popular with the children, is equally chic for the younger girl. Their gay-colors are right in tune with spring. Crisply new tissue gingham and imported printed linens are belted with narrow patent leather belts and have ribbon ties. Every color combination that a girl wants in frocks from $1 to $10.

Smart Coats

in Tweed and Homespun
$4.95 — $5.75 — $7.75

Coats for children are like those for girls and women in the smart simplicity of their slim lines and the details that reveal fine tailoring. Fabrics are usually homespun, tweeds, and novelty plaids of fine quality that will retain good lines as long as the coats last. Various shades of tan, rose, blue and green are among the best colors for children. There is a range of prices from $4.95 to $7.75.

Tailored Coats for Boys

Up to Four Years

$6.75 and Up

The very small boys from two to four years will be trig this spring in tailored coats that are not only very good looking and smart but very boyish. Pockets are braid bound, collars fit as they should, colors are specially selected for boyish effects. Priced from $6.75 up.
